PREFACE.

IN placing before the public this volume, the compiler deems it appropriate to state that a long and varied experience in the compilation of works of a similar character has convinced him of the absolute necessity of a thorough and systematic canvass of the localities embraced, in order to present publications that will supply the wants and merit the approbation of the mercantile community. In pursuance of this plan, a corps of experienced canvassers have been employed in the collection of names and statistics for this work, from British Columbia on the north to Mexico on the south, and no pains or expense spared to make it complete and reliable in every respect. In addition to the alphabetical and classified lists of business men in many of the most important localities in California, Oregon, Washington Territory, Alaska, British Columbia, and Mexico, it will be found to contain an accurate description of each city or town, commercial statistics, population, routes of travel, distances, and other valuable data; the whole forming a complete and useful Book of Reference for the business men of the Pacific Coast, Eastern States, and Europe. A valuable feature of the work is a reliable list of the merchants, etc., in several important towns on the west coast of Mexico, a rich and fertile section that is now attracting the attention of the merchants and manufacturers of the United States. In conclusion, the compiler respectfully tenders his thanks to the members of the press, public officers, and others, for their evidences of good will and cheerful response to requests for information. His thanks are also due to the numerous patrons of the work, for their liberal support; and to Messrs. Bacon & Company, the printers of the volume, for its neat and attractive typographical appearance.

CALIFORNIA

Business Directory and Gazetteer.

Alameda P O,

Alameda County, a pretty suburban town, situated opposite San Francisco in an easterly direction, on a strip of land some 4 miles in length, extending in peninsula form into the bay. Upon entering the town, the mind is at once impressed with its romantic beauty. It has wide and level streets, affording excellent drives, and the sturdy oak trees, donned with summer foliage, under-spread with greensward, the neat and attractive dwellings surrounded with handsome gardens and lawns, combined with the pure and healthy atmosphere, make it an inviting residence place for the business men of San Francisco. Its fine parks and numerous sea-bathing establishments also make it a favorite place of resort for pleasure seekers. It has good public schools, including a high school, two grammar, and three primary, which have an average attendance of 1,000 pupils, the number enrolled being about 1,250. The churches which are well sustained are represented by the Baptist, Congregational, Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist, German Reformed, and Roman Catholic denominations. A free library and reading room is maintained, having about 2,000 volumes; which is a neat and inviting resort for those who desire to gratify a literary taste. There are several secret and benevolent organizations, including the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order of United Workmen, Patriotic Order of Sons of America, Independent Order of Chosen Friends, etc. Two well conducted newspapers, the Alameda Argus and Alameda Encinal, are published weekly. The number of inhabitants, according to the census of 1880, was 5,194, but at the present time is estimated to be 8,500. Communication is maintained with San Francisco via Oakland by the Central Pacific, and via Alameda Point by the South Pacific Coast Railroads, which run at short intervals through the day. The trains of the South Pacific Coast also run twice a day to Santa Cruz, and three times a day to San Jose and intermediate points.

Los Angeles County, situated 12 miles from the coast, and 27 miles in a south-easterly direction from the city of Los Angeles, contains a population of about 1,100. The town occupies a pleasant site, and the roads lined with shade trees, and the orange trees in the vicinity, give it quite an attractive appearance. The principal resource is wine growing, this section being one of the most noted in Southern California for its numerous and extensive vineyards. Three ditches owned by the Anaheim Water Co furnish the surrounding country with a good supply of water for irrigation purposes. The societies organized are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Ancient Order of United Workmen, Legion of Honor, and Anaheim Land League. The public school, which is the principal building in the place, occupies an entire block, and has an average attendance of three hundred pupils. The churches are represented by the Presbyterian, Episcopal, and Roman Catholic. There are two well-conducted hotels, the Planter's and the Anaheim. One paper, the Anaheim Gazette, is published weekly. Daily communication is maintained with Los Angeles and Santa Anna, by the Wilmington and San Diego division of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Santa Cruz Co, is situated on the Bay of Monterey 8 miles east of the town of Santa Cruz, and 12 miles north-west of Watsonville. Population 150. It is principally noted as a summer resort, its genial climate, magnificent mountain scenery and sparkling streams well stocked with fish, making it an attractive spot for tourists and pleasure seekers. The Santa Cruz railroad maintains daily communication with Santa Cruz and Watsonville, connecting with trains for San Francisco and intermediate points. It is also connected with San Francisco by the steamers of the Pacific Coast S. S. Co.

Arcata P O,

Humboldt Co, situated on Humboldt Bay, 8 miles in a northeasterly direction from Eureka by water, and 12 miles by land, is built on ground gradually rising and rolling to the hills, which form the back ground to a pleasing view. It is laid out somewhat after the Spanish custom, the business portion being principally located on either side of a plaza, having a flag staff in the centre. The town was located in 1850, under the name of Union Town, which was changed in 1862 to Arcata. It is eligibly situated for the trade of Mad River, five miles distant, and is also a supply point for a portion of the Klamath and Trinity River mining districts, sixty miles distant. The timber lands of the surrounding country are the principal resource, although some farming is carried on in the vicinity. During the year 1881, there were shipped from this point 5,400,000 feet of lumber, and 3,000 tons of shingles, shakes, farm produce, etc. The population according to the census of 1880, was 763. It is now estimated at 900. A library and free reading room are maintained by the Arcata Library Association. There are three churches, the Methodist, Presbyterian and Roman Catholic. Two public schools, a grammar, and a primary one, have an attendance of about three hundred pupils. The secret and benevolent societies are represented by the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Good Templars, and Champions of Friendship and Temperance. Communication is maintained with Eureka twice a day by stage and steamer, and Mad River by stage daily and rail twice a day.

Benicia P O,

Solano Co, is an incorporated city situated on the north side of the Straits of Carquinez, about 33 miles north-east of San Francisco. At this point the overland trains of the Central Pacific Railroad cross the straits of Carquinez on the mammoth steam ferry-boat of the world, which is 425 feet in length, with a capacity for full trains at one trip. It is the contemplated terminus of several railroads, and, being the tide water outlet for the north-western portion of the State, with the commercial advantages afforded by an ample water front, its future has a bright outlook. The climate is mild, and the location is an exceedingly healthful one. The population, according to the census of 1880, was 2,146, and is now estimated at 2,800. A public school is maintained, having an attendance of about 350 scholars. Its private institutions of learning rank with the best in the State. The St. Augustine College, a boarding and day school for boys, Rt. Rev. J. H. D. Wingfield, president, is an excellent institution, founded in 1867. It occupies an elevated site, the commodious college buildings being surrounded by sixty acres of land, tastefully laid out with trees, gardens, and shrubbery. St. Mary's Hall, Rev. L. D. Mansfield, rector, Mrs. Mansfield, principal, a boarding and day school for girls, is an institution of great merit. The building is a large, handsome structure, specially designed for school purposes, prettily located in fine view of the surrounding country, and has large area of grounds beautifully laid out. St. Catherine's Academy is a boarding and day school for girls, under the supervision of the Sisters of St. Dominic. This is also an excellently conducted institution, finely appointed in all its departments. The buildings are surrounded by grounds tastily laid out and attractive. The Young Ladies' Seminary is also a boarding and day school for girls, with commodious buildings and handsome surrounding grounds. In manufacturing industries the city is attaining considerable importance. The Benicia Agricultural Works, located here, are the most extensive of the kind in the State, and employ over 200 men. Several other manufacturing establishments employ in the aggregate about 250 men. The Benicia cannery, which has recently commenced operations, employs 150 persons, including a number of boys and girls. The secret and benevolent societies are represented by the Masons, Odd Fellows, United Workmen, Legion of Honor, Chosen Friends, Good Templars, Land League, and St. Dominic's Benevolent Society. The churches are the Congregational, Episcopal, and Roman Catholic. An excellent paper, The New Era, published weekly, advocates with zeal the interests of the community. A gas company furnishes light, and good water is distributed through the city by the Benicia Water Co and an individual party. The fire department consists of two hand engines and a hook and ladder truck. Communication is maintained by the Central Pacific Railroad with San Francisco and other points twice a day, by steamer daily with San Francisco and river points, and three times a day by ferry with Martinez.

Berkeley P O,

Alameda Co, situated 9 miles from San Francisco, in a northeasterly direction, occupies a picturesque site on slightly elevated and rolling ground, commanding a beautiful view of the bay and Golden Gate. It was incorporated as a town April 1st, 1878, and now contains a population of about 3,000. The University of California, located in the outskirts of the town, is a handsome and commodious edifice, surrounded by beautiful grounds. This institution was incorporated by an Act of the Legislature in 1868, and is attended by students from every portion of the State. In the same vicinity is situated the Deaf and Dumb and Blind Institute, a fine brick building three stories in height, erected at a cost, including grounds, of about $150,000. Several manufacturing establishments, including oil, starch, chemical, sulphur, powder, and soap works, also a boot and shoe factory, give employment to quite a large number of men. A paper called the Berkeley Advocate is published weekly; there is also a magazine and a small paper regularly issued by the students of the University. Two public schools are maintained, which are well attended. There are several churches, including two Episcopalian, two Presbyterian, a Methodist, and a Congregational. The secret societies are represented by lodges of Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, and Ancient Order United Workmen. Trains leave at short intervals during the day for Oakland Point, connecting with steamers for San Francisco.

Crescent City P O,

County seat of Del Norte Co, is a flourishing town of about 400 inhabitants. It is situated 90 miles north of Eureka, on the southerly side of a low promontory, extending from the Coast Range mountains. At the site of the town it is low timber land, scarcely elevated above the possible reach of running tides. The harbor is an open roadsted, affording good shelter in summer, but unprotected against the southerly winds which prevail during the winter months. The town is well laid out and compactly built. It contains a good public school, the number of scholars enrolled numbering about one hundred and fifty. There are two churches, a Methodist and Roman Catholic. Of societies there are organized lodges of Masons, Odd Fellows, United Workmen, and Good Templars. Two weekly papers are published, the Crescent City Courier and the Del Norte Record. The principal industry is the manufacture of lumber, although it has a large mineral and agricultural country properly tributary to it. Gold, iron, and chrome mines, are found within 12 miles of the town. The latter have been worked at intervals since 1869, and considerable ore shipped. The gold mines consist of quartz, placer, and beach, which have been worked to some extent. The iron mines have not been developed, although efforts have been made to secure the necessary capital for that purpose. Several copper mines are located about 30 miles distant, one of which is said to yield very rich ore. Communication is maintained with San Francisco by steamer.

Eureka P O,

Humboldt Co, county seat and incorporated city, situated on Humboldt Bay, about five miles from the entrance, and 230 miles from San Francisco, is the principal seaport town of Northern California. The Bay on which it is located is a fine body of water, about 18 miles long and from 1 to 4 miles wide, affording perfect shelter for vessels at all times of the year; but unfortunately has a shoal bar, which is at times a serious impediment to navigation. The town was located about the 20th of April, 1850. It is on slightly rolling ground, and well laid out, the streets being of good width. The residences, some of which are handsome edifices, are built of wood, but the business portion of the town contains several substantial brick buildings. The commerce of the port is rapidly increasing. Among the exports during the year 1881, were about 120,000,000 feet of lumber, 900,000 pounds of wool and 500,000 pounds of butter. Like many other places on the coast north of San Francisco, the manufacture of lumber is the principal industry, but farming, dairying and stock raising are also extensively carried on in the neighboring districts. The place contains six steam saw mills, having an aggregate daily capacity of about 400,000 feet; also a door and moulding factory, and an iron foundry. Four shipyards employ about seventy-five men. Five vessels were built at these yards during the year 1881, and four more are under way. The Chamber of Commerce established during the present year is expected to promote materially the interests of the city and county. A United States Land Office affords the inhabitants of the surrounding country facilities for the entry of public lands. There are six excellent public schools, having an attendance of about 550 scholars, the number enrolled being about 700. The Humboldt Seminary, a boarding and day school for boys and girls, has an attendance of thirty scholars. The St Joseph's Institute, under the direction of the Sisters of Mercy, has 90 pupils. In addition to these institutions the city is provided with a free library, containing about 1050 volumes, with comfortable reading rooms connected. The religious denominations organized are the Episcopal, Methodist, Congregational, United Brethren and Roman Catholic. The secret and benevolent societies are well represented, there being lodges of Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order United Workmen, Good Templars, Champions of Friendship and Temperance, and Orangemen. The fire department apparatus consists of two steam engines, drawn by horses, and one hand engine; eight large tanks and two cisterns afford a sufficient supply of water for any emergency. Two parties individually furnish the inhabitants with water from artesian wells. Three papers—the Humboldt Times and Evening Telephone published daily and weekly, and the Democratic Standard issued weekly, supply the current news of the day. The census of 1880 gives a population of 3,486; at present it is estimated at 4,500. The climate is mild and extremely healthful. At times fogs prevail, but the city is free from the high winds so prevalent in some seaport towns. Stages leave daily for Cloverdale, connecting with the trains of the San Francisco and North Pacific R. R.; also for Petrolia via Ferndale. Communication is maintained with Arcata by stage and steamer, and Mad River by steamer and rail twice a day. The Humboldt S. S. Co., also maintains weekly communication with San Francisco.

Los Angeles P O,

Los Angeles Co, county seat and incorporated city, is the metropolis of Southern California, and, next to San Francisco, is one of the leading commercial cities of the State. It occupies a picturesque site, in a valley between the Sierra Madre range of mountains and the sea-coast, 460 miles south of San Francisco, and 21 miles north of Wilmington, its seaport. The city is well laid out, and with its handsome residences, delightful orange groves and fine drives, presents a very attractive appearance. In the business portion are many large and substantial stone and brick buildings, which would be a credit to larger cities. As a railroad center the place is assuming considerable importance, the bustle and excitement caused by the various incoming and outgoing trains giving it a very lively appearance. It is the business center of the section in which it is situated, and in accordance with the laws of trade, must assume far greater prominence. In the surrounding country the raising of citrus fruits and grapes is the principal industry. Sheep raising and wool growing are also extensively carried on, and cereals of various kinds produced in abundance. The facilities afforded for the raising of raw material in this section will no doubt soon lead to the establishment of various manufacturing enterprises, which will add materially to the wealth and prosperity of the city. Many institutions of a high character are maintained by public and private appropriations and donations. Excellent public schools are a feature of the city. Twelve have already been established, which in the aggregate have an attendance of about fourteen hundred scholars. In addition to these institutions of learning is the University of Southern California, and a Branch Normal School. The Los Angeles Public Library, containing about 2,600 volumes, is maintained by a direct levy on the taxable property of the city, and by monthly subscriptions of twenty-five cents, paid by persons drawing books for home reading. An Orphans' Home provides for the care and maintenance of fatherless and motherless children, and a good hospital and infirmary provide accommodations for the sick. The religious denominations are represented by the Episcopalians, Methodists, Southern Methodists, Presbyterians, Congregationalists, Baptists, Adventists and Roman Catholics, several of which own handsome church edifices. The secret and benevolent orders are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order United Workmen, Chosen Friends, Legion of Honor, and Good Templars. The city is well protected from the ravages of the fire fiend, by a good volunteer fire department; the apparatus in use consists of two steam engines, one hose cart, and a hook and ladder truck; and fifty-nine hydrants afford a good supply of water. Gas and water works, street railroads, telegraph and telephone lines, are also among the institutions maintained for the convenience and comfort of the inhabitants, and a U. S. Land Office affords facilities for the entry of public lands. The climate is mild and of an even temperature, the distance from the coast being sufficient to escape the high winds which at times prevail there, yet close enough to receive the moistening and cooling influence of the sea air. According to the census of 1880 the population of the city was 11,000. It is now estimated at 16,000. Several well conducted journals advocate the interests of the section. Of these the Express, Herald, Times, and Commercial are published daily; and the Mirror, Semi-Tropic California, Sued Californische Post (German), L'Union Nouvelle (French), weekly; and La Cronica (Spanish) semi-weekly. Communication is maintained with San Francisco, and other points in California, Arizona, New Mexico, and Texas by the Southern Pacific R. R., connecting at Deming, New Mexico, with the Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fe R. R. Other roads diverging from the city maintain daily communication with Anaheim, Downey, Santa Ana, Wilmington, Santa Monica, etc, connecting with stages for San Diego and other points. Communication is also maintained with San Francisco, San Diego, and intermediate ports by the steamers of the Pacific Coast S. S. Co.

Mendocino Co, is situated on the sea-coast about 175 miles north-west of San Francisco. The town occupies a pleasant site on a point of land gradually rising from the water, affording a fine view of the ocean. It contains several stores, which carry on a good trade, two banks, four hotels, and other business places. One paper, the Mendocino Beacon, is published weekly. In the surrounding country are excellent timber lands, which constitute the main resource of this section. Stages leave daily, connecting at Duncan's Mills with the North Pacific Coast and at Cloverdale with the San Francisco and North Pacific Railroad. Communication is also maintained with San Francisco weekly by the Pacific Coast Steamship Co.

Monterey P O,

Monterey Co, situated on Monterey Bay, 85 miles by water and 125 miles by rail south-east of San Francisco, contains about 1,400 inhabitants. The bay is a magnificent body of water twenty-eight miles in extent, and the harbor one of the best on the coast, having a secure anchorage, and being amply protected from gales. It has a beautiful beach unsurpassed for bathing purposes, where may be found shells, agates, and sea mosses in great variety. The majority of the buildings in the town are adobe, there being but one built of brick, which is said to be the first of the kind erected in California. The first billiard table and first piano ever brought to California are also to be found here, both of which are in a good state of preservation. The place is one of the few in California where the customs of the Spanish race are still retained to any great extent. One of the most noted among the objects of interest is the ruins of San Carlos, or Carmel Mission, situated about four miles from town. The building, originally a noble looking edifice, is fast falling into decay. In the churchyard of the mission lie the remains of fifteen governors of this province and State, and here is the tomb of Junipero Serra, a noted founder of missions on this coast, who died in 1784. Another place of interest, especially during the summer months, is the Pacific Grove Retreat, situated about one mile west of the town. Cypress Point is also a beautiful spot well worthy of notice. The Hotel del Monte is one of the most magnificent seaside establishments in the United States. It is surrounded by extensive grounds exquisitely laid out, and the bathing pavilion connected with the hotel is said to be the largest and most complete in the world. The town contains a public school with an average attendance of 275 scholars, and three churches, an Episcopal, Methodist, and Roman Catholic. The latter, a white stone edifice, was erected in 1794. The altar is considered a fine piece of art, and upon the walls are to be seen many paintings of great age and beauty. The secret orders organized are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Ancient Order United Workmen, and Good Templars. A well conducted journal, the Monterey Argus, is published weekly. The climate of this section is unsurpassed, it being noted for its even temperature the year round. The principal industries are dairying and stock raising. Whale fishing is also carried on to some extent, the catch some seasons being very large. Communication is maintained with San Francisco and other points by the Southern Pacific Railroad, and with San Francisco and way ports by the

Moro P O,

San Luis Obispo Co, is situated on Moro Bay, 185 miles south of San Francisco. It has a natural land-locked harbor which vessels of light draft can enter at all times of the year without difficulty. The town occupies a pleasant site overlooking the broad expanse of ocean to the westward, while to the eastward is a fine view of the coast range of mountains. Moro Rock, an immense pile of granite, its base covering about sixty-five acres, and rearing its head 580 feet above sea level, guards the entrance to the harbor. The surrounding country is mostly rich farming and grazing lands. In close proximity to the town are fifteen large dairies.

Oakland P O,

Alameda Co, an incorporated city and county seat, is situated on the eastern shore of the bay of San Francisco, 6 miles distant from the city of San Francisco. It was first settled in 1851, incorporated as a town May 11th, 1852, and chartered as a city March 25th, 1854. The place derived its name from the oak trees which cover the peninsula on which it is located, and whose delightful groves and romantic appearance first attracted attention to the spot as being a desirable place of residence and pleasure resort. It is a beautiful city, regularly laid out, with broad streets, shaded with trees on either side. Flower-laden gardens ornament the cottage and the mansion, and handsome and substantial structures adorn the business thoroughfares. The level, floor-like site affords excellent drives, and in the suburbs the charming scenery, beautiful parks, springs, and pleasure retreats delight the eye and entrance the mind. It has a very mild climate, and although but across the bay, the high winds of San Francisco diminish here to a light breeze, and the frequent fogs which roll over that city are hardly susceptible. It is principally noted as a city of homes, although its selection as a railroad terminus infused a life current into the arteries of business, which has developed the city into an important emporium of trade.

The population, according to the census of 1880, was 34,456, and is now estimated at 40,000. An excellent system of schools is maintained, both public and private, not to be excelled by any in the State. There are sixteen public schools, with an average daily attendance of about 5,550 scholars. The private institutions of learning are Mills Seminary, Snell's Seminary, and Convent of Our Lady of the Sacred Heart for girls, California Military Academy, St. Joseph's Academy, and Hopkins Academy for boys, and the Pacific Theological Seminary. Several well-conducted journals, including the Times, Tribune, Independent, Sentinel, Press, and Vidette disseminate the news of the day. Of societies, there are organized lodges of Maçons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Red Men, United Workmen, Patriotic Sons of America, and Chosen Friends, besides a number of others of a social and benevolent character. The religious element is represented by churches of the following denominations: Baptist, Congregational, Episcopal, Presbyterian, Latter Day Saints, Seventh Day Adventists, Church of Christ, Hebrew, and Roman Catholic. A Free Library and Odd Fellows' Library are maintained, which are well supplied with books and newspapers. Several manufacturing establishments, including planing mills, flouring mills, a jute factory, etc., and the various shops belonging to the Central Pacific R. R. Co., give employment to a large number of men. An efficient paid fire department and telegraph fire alarm is maintained. The city is illuminated with gas by the Oakland Gaslight Co, and furnished with an abundant supply of good water by the Contra Costa Water Co. A system of street railroads traverse the city in various directions at convenient intervals. The overland trains of the Central Pacific R. R. Co. leave daily, and local trains of this company leave every half hour until eight o'clock in the evening, and thereafter hourly for San Francisco and Berkeley, and hourly for Alameda.

Salinas P O,

Monterey Co, an incorporated city, and county seat, of about 2,500 inhabitants, is situated in Salinas Valley, on the line of the Southern Pacific Railroad, 118 miles south of San Francisco. It occupies a pleasant site, and is surrounded by rich agricultural lands, which are extensively cultivated, producing large crops of grain and other produce. Wool growing, dairying, and bee culture are also carried on to a considerable extent. The city is well laid out, and contains a fine brick court-house and city hall. Three public schools are maintained, having an average attendance of three hundred and twenty-five scholars, and several churches, including two Presbyterian, two Methodist, an Episcopal, Baptist, Lutheran, and Roman Catholic. Two papers, the Monterey Democrat and Salinas Index, are published weekly. The societies organized are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Ancient Order United Workmen, Good Templars, Legion of Honor, and Patriotic Order Sons of America. A fire department has also been organized, the apparatus consisting of one hand engine, a hook and ladder truck, and hose cart. Daily communication is maintained with San Francisco and other points by the Southern Pacific Railroad.

Officers.—H S Ball, Mayor; W H Clark, J P Raymond, W F Ramsey, A W Mayburg, W R Conner, and H C Tuttle, Councilmen; John J Kelly, Assessor and Clerk; W P Nichols, Treasurer and Tax Collector; A F Tynan, Marshal.

San Buenaventura P O,

Ventura Co, an incorporated town of about 2,300 inhabitants, and county seat, is situated on the sea-coast at the mouth of the Ventura River, 311 miles by water south-east of San Francisco. It has no harbor, the water front being simply an open roadstead, from the shore of which extends a good wharf fifteen hundred feet in length. The origin of the town dates from March 31st, 1782, when Fathers Junipero Serra, and Pedro Benito Cambon founded the Mission of San Buenaventura. The record of this event, in the handwriting of the former, is still to be found among the archives in the present Mission church. From a small Spanish village the place has developed into a busy, enterprising, American town; but the old church edifice and adobe houses yet to be seen reminds one of its Castilian origin. The place contains quite a number of substantial buildings, the most prominent of which are the court-house and school-house, both remarkably fine structures built of brick and stone. Among the institutions maintained are three public schools, having an average attendance of two hundred and eighty scholars, and a public library well supplied with books and papers. There are four churches: the Methodist, Presbyterian, Congregational, and Roman Catholic. The secret and benevolent societies represented are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Ancient Order United Workmen, Knights of Honor, and Good Templars. The fire department consists of a hook-and-ladder and hose company. A good supply of water for drinking and other purposes is obtained from the Ventura River, and conducted into a reservoir located about two hundred feet above the town level. Two weekly journals, the Ventura Signal, and the Ventura Free Press, ably advocate the interests of the section, and furnish the current news. The climate is mild, but the town being situated immediately on the sea-coast is subject at times to fogs and winds from the ocean. The resources of the surrounding country are both agricultural and mineral. Although the county is very mountainous, it contains many small valleys which are exceedingly fertile, yielding large crops of corn, barley, wheat, and other produce. Stock-raising and wool-growing are also carried on to a considerable extent. Coal oil is found in the vicinity in large quantities, thousands of barrels being shipped monthly to San Francisco. Stages leave daily for Soledad and Newhall, connecting at both points with the trains of the Southern Pacific R. R. Communication is also maintained with San Francisco, San Diego, and way ports, by the steamers of the Pacific Coast S. S. Co.

San Diego P O,

San Diego Co, an incorporated city and county seat, is situated on the bay of San Diego, 482 miles by water south-east of San Francisco. The harbor, one of the best on the Pacific Coast, is completely land-locked, and can be entered by vessels of the largest class, the water on the bar being 23½ feet in depth at the lowest tide. Upon entering the bay the town of old San Diego, with its crumbling adobes, commingled with buildings of modern architecture, is the first object that strikes the eye. This place occupies the site of the Presidio established by the Franciscan Fathers in 1769. Six miles above, in the valley of the San Diego river, is the old Mission church, erected in 1774, its fallen roof and tottering walls giving evidence of its antiquity. The San Diego of to-day, a thriving city of over 4,000 inhabitants, occupies a beautiful site about four miles distant from the old town. Its advantageous location on one of the finest bays on the coast, affording facilities for communication by sea with the different ports of the world, together with the construction of the California Southern and other railroads which when completed will afford rapid communication with all parts of the Union, insures its future prosperity, and it will no doubt ere long rank in commercial importance with the leading cities of the Pacific Coast. The town is well laid out, and contains many substantial brick buildings and handsome residences, that would be a credit to any place. Among the public institutions maintained are nine schools, having an average attendance of 250 boys and 275 girls. A new and handsome school edifice, to be known as the Russ school, is now in course of erection, at a cost of $15,000. The religious denominations so far organized are the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Baptist, Methodist, Unitarian, Swe-denborgian, and Roman Catholic. Of societies there are Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order United Workmen, Good Templars, San Diego Lyceum of Natural Sciences, San Diego

Society of Natural History, and National Ranch Grange. As a protection against fire, there is a hook and ladder company and hose carts, together with two hundred hydrants furnishing a good supply of water, with pressure sufficient to throw it over the highest buildings. Water for all purposes is brought from the San Diego river. It is pumped by steam from the river into a large reservoir about three hundred feet above the level of the town, and from this point is distributed to all parts of the city. By this means an amount sufficient to supply about fifty thousand inhabitants can be readily obtained. Besides the organizations already enumerated, there is a Chamber of Commerce, which zealously labors to advance the commercial interests of the city, a gas company which furnishes the necessary light, and a telephone company which affords facilities for rapid communication. Two well-conducted journals, the Union and the Sun, furnish the inhabitants the foreign and local news of the day. The climate of San Diego is unsurpassed, the temperature being remarkably even the year round. As a resort for invalids, it is not excelled by any locality on the Coast. In the surrounding country are many exceedingly fertile valleys, and also a large extent of low rolling hill lands, which are very productive. Wheat, barley, flax, etc., of an excellent quality, and also fruits of almost every kind grown in abundance. It is also a land of honey, the export of this article in favorable seasons reaching as high as 1,500,000 pounds. Stages leave daily for Julian City, Temecula, and Santa Ana, connecting at the latter point with the trains of the Southern Pacific R. R. Communication is also maintained with San Francisco and intermediate ports by the steamers of the Pacific Coast S. S. Co.

San Francisco,

San Francisco Co, is situated on the west shore of the bay from which it derives its name. in latitude 37° 47' 35", longitude 122° 26' 15". It occupies the terminal portion of a peninsula, extending in a northwesterly direction from the main land, lashed on the west by the long swelling billows of the Pacific ocean, and rippled on the east by the smooth waters of the bay. The city and county extends from bay to ocean, four and one-half miles in average width, and six and one-half miles in length. The harbor is a beautiful sheet of water, about 75 miles in length and 12 miles in average width, affording safe anchorage at all times. Its entrance, the far-famed Golden Gate, is a strait about 5 miles in length and 2 miles in average width. Vessels can enter with ease and safety, and the depth of water is sufficient for the largest craft. The first settlement of white men on the shores of the bay was made in June, 1776, by an expedition from Monterey under Friars Francisco Palou and Benito Cambon, accompanied by several settlers with their families, and a detachment of soldiers, under the command of Don Jose Moraga.

Previous to this, in 1775, a vessel called the San Carlos, commanded by Lieutenant Ayala, was dispatched from Monterey to ascertain if an entrance to the bay could be effected, and in August of that year passed through what is now called the Golden Gate. This is the first vessel, of which we have any authentic record, to cast anchor in the bay of San Francisco. It is contended by some historians, however, that the bay was discovered by Sir Francis Drake, in 1579, during his voyage along the coast. In October, 1776, the mission Dolores was founded, and about this time, a few houses were also erected near the shore of the bay, and the settlement named Yerba Buena, after an aromatic herb of that name which grew in great abundance on the surrounding hills. This name was retained until January, 1847, when it was changed to San Francisco by an ordinance issued by the American alcalde, Washington A. Bartlett. In 1822 California became a Mexican territory, and from that time the commerce of the port gradually increased, hides, tallow and grain being the principal exports. The first survey of the town was made in 1839, by Captain Juan Vioget, which included the ground bounded by Montgomery, Kearny, Sacramento and Pacific streets. The war with Mexico broke out in 1846, and on the eighth of July of that year, Captain Montgomery, of the U. S. sloop of war Portsmouth, took formal possession of the town, hoisting the stars and stripes on the Plaza, now known as Portsmouth Square; and soon after, Washington A. Bartlett, a lieutenant on the Portsmouth, was appointed alcalde. The discovery of gold, in the fall of 1848, was the dawn of an era of prosperity which was to metamorphose the embryo nucleus into the beautiful city of the present. In the place of sand hills we now see massive, handsome and imposing buildings and blocks, and the sandy plains have been transformed into gardens which diffuse fragrant odor from flowers in perpetual bloom. The incorporation as a city was effected in May, 1850, and the consolidation of the city and county governments, in July, 1856. Its rapid growth to the city of magnificent proportions and commanding importance of to-day is a marvel of wonder and a rare instance of the giant possibilities of human energy and American enterprise. The population according to the census of 1880 was 233,956. It is the chief commercial metropolis and emporium of the Pacific Coast, and with its vast natural resources, broad avenues of trade, and the commerce of the world knocking at its doors, its continued growth and prosperity is assured. The climate is mild and healthful, a very even temperature being maintained throughout the year. The city proper occupies the north-east portion of the peninsular. From the top of Telegraph Hill, the extreme north-eastern point, a grand and picturesque view is obtained. Southward the city spreads out in a sea of buildings, intersected with streets, teeming with life and animation of business bustle and confusion, from which the eye wanders in relief to the surrounding scene of harbor, with numerous craft of steam and sail riding gracefully on its placid surface, islands standing out in bold relief, the romantic oak-shaded nooks and hamlets around the shores, overlooked by green-carpeted hills, the Golden Gate through which the waters of the Pacific flood and ebb, and still beyond, the vast expanse of ocean. It is regularly laid out, the streets crossing each other at right angles. Elegant and palatial residences, with tastily laid-out grounds, adorn the city, and handsome and substantial structures grace the business thoroughfares. In the suburbs are beautiful parks and gardens for pleasure resort, and points of interest to delight the eye of the sight-seeker. Golden Gate Park, the most prominent one, covers a large area of ground, beautifully laid out, with walks, drives, and gardens, containing flowers and plants of every description and variety, trees and shrubbery, hot-houses, conservatories, etc. A fine ocean view is obtained at the "Cliff," which is reached by an excellent drive. The numbers of seal to be seen on the rocks a short distance from the shore form an object of attraction at this resort. The public buildings, notably the City Hall, Mint, Appraisers' Building, and Sub-Treasury Building compare favorably with any of the larger cities of the Union. The public school system is a pride of the city, and is not to be excelled by any in the United States. The report of the superintendent of common schools for the year ending June 30, 1881, shows the number of schools to be 62, having an average attendance of 29,092 scholars. There are also a large number of private schools and collegiate institutions of high character. Churches of all denominations, creed, and sect are maintained, and secret, benevolent, and social societies of every order and nature have been organized. The public libraries will bear comparison with any in the older cities. The Free Library, recently established, is a credit and ornament to the city. It has commodious rooms lighted with electric light, and promises, in number of volumes and completeness of appointment, to rival any in the Union. A Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade are established, and two Stock Exchanges, a Produce Exchange, and a Grain Exchange are among the institutions of the city. In manufacturing industry all the various branches are represented. Iron and brass foundries, smelting works, woolen and flour mills, wire and cordage factories, glassworks, sugar refineries, etc. A network of street railroads afford cheap transit in every direction. Five of these are wire cable roads, a feature of the city and a model mode of public conveyance. Two gas companies supply the city with gas, and night is turned into day by the subtlety of electric fluid supplied by the Electric Light Co. Excellent water is distributed throughout the city for domestic and city purposes by the Spring Valley Water Co. Rapid communication is maintained by the aid of the telegraph and telephone. The fire department, which includes a telegraph fire-alarm, is a model of perfection unsurpassed by any in the world. The apparatus consists of twelve steam engines and tenders, eight hose carts, and four hook and ladder trucks and several steam engines, hose carts, and hook and ladder trucks in reserve. A Fire Patrol is also maintained by the Board of Underwriters. The commerce of the city is rapidly increasing. The foreign imports for the year 1881 amounted to $40,360,619, and the exports to $47,369,193. The amount of exports by rail during the same period was about $50,000,000. The public is informed of the current news of the day by newspapers published in the English, German, French, Spanish, Scandinavian, Italian and Chinese languages. Communication is maintained with bay and river points by ferries and steamers, and with various inland towns by rail. Two transcontinental railroads, the Central Pacific and Southern Pacific, afford rapid communication with the Eastern States, and several steamship lines maintain communication with various ports in California, Oregon, Washington Territory, Alaska, British Columbia and Mexico, also with Panama, Honolulu, Hong Kong, Yokohama, Sydney and Auckland.

San Luis Obispo P O,

San Luis Obispo Co, an incorporated city and county seat of about 2,700 inhabitants, is situated in San Luis Obispo Valley, 200 miles by water south-east of San Francisco, and 9 miles north of Port Harford, its seaport, with which it is connected by rail. Its site was formerly occupied by the old Mission of San Luis Obispo, founded in 1772 by the monks of the Order of Saint Francis. The city is pleasantly located and well laid out, and its shaded streets with handsome residences, whose flower-laden gardens fill the air with sweet perfume and please the eye with floral beauty, give it quite an attractive appearance. The business portion contains a number of fine, substantial buildings, occupied by wealthy and responsible firms, who carry on an extensive trade. Two good public schools are maintained, having an average attendance of three hundred and twenty-five scholars. The religious denominations organized, some of which have handsome church edifices, are the Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist, Methodist South, and Roman Catholic. The secret and benevolent societies represented are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order United Workmen, American Legion of Honor, Order of Chosen Friends, and Good Templars.

The San Luis Obispo Water Co supplies the city with an abundant supply of good water brought from a branch of San Luis Creek. The fire department consists of a hook and ladder and hose companies, in addition to which are twenty hydrants located at convenient points. Two excellent weekly journals, the Tribune and Mirror, zealously advocate the interests of the community and furnish the current news. In the valley and surrounding country are excellent agricultural and grazing lands, farming, stock-raising, and dairying being the principal industries. A company has recently been incorporated with the object of extending the San Luis Obispo and Santa Maria Valley Railroad. When this road is completed, it will afford direct rail communication with the southern and coast counties, and be a material benefit to the section. Stages leave daily for Soledad and Newhall, connecting with the trains of the Southern Pacific Railroad. Weekly communication is maintained with San Francisco, via Port Harford, by the Pacific Coast Steamship Co.

Marin Co, is situated on San Quentin Point, 12 miles by water from San Francisco, and 3 miles by rail from San Rafael. It is principally noted as the seat of the State Penitentiary, which is a substantial brick edifice 240 by 134 feet in dimensions. It contains within its walls at the present date 1,194 prisoners. Of this number 238, or about one-fifth, are Chinese, and 10 are females. The labor of the convicts is utilized in several branches of industry, the most prominent of which is the manufacture of jute bagging. The factory recently erected for this purpose contains one hundred looms, gives employment to four hundred convicts, and turns out 8,000 sacks per day. The place maintains a public school, which has an attendance of about seventy-five scholars. The village and prison are supplied with gas and water brought in pipes from San Rafael. Communication is maintained with San Francisco by water, and San Rafael by rail, four times a day.

San Rafael P O,

Marin Co, an incorporated town and county seat, is situated in a small valley of the same name on the line of the North Pacific Coast Railroad, 15 miles north-west of San Francisco. It is a beautiful and picturesque spot, surrounded by an amphitheater of hills, except at the foot of the valley, where it opens to the bay. It is nicely laid out with streets lined with shade trees, and the many fine residences are adorned with delightful and tastily laid-out grounds. Being so completely sheltered, it is free from wind, dust, and fog, and has an almost semi-tropical climate. It is but a short and pleasant ride from San Francisco, and the rare advantages it offers for a suburban home have been availed of by many of the business men of that city. Its healthful climate also makes it an excellent resort for invalids, and its park, gardens, and romantic nooks and retreats make it an attractive place for the pleasure-seeker. Farming and dairying are carried on in the vicinity; but not extensively. The town has a population of about 2,500 inhabitants. Three public schools are maintained, having an attendance of about 300 scholars. The secret and benevolent societies are the Masons, Odd Fellows, United Workmen, Legion of Honor, and Good Templars. The religious denominations represented are the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist Episcopal, and Roman Catholic. The town contains a handsome court-house, erected at a cost of $70,000. It is surrounded with grounds tastily laid out with trees, shrubbery, lawns, and tropical plants. The fire department consists in apparatus of one hand engine, a hook and ladder truck, and two hose carts. The San Rafael Gas Co. supplies the town with light, and excellent water is distributed by the Marin County Water Co. Communication is maintained with San Francisco four times a day, and with Duncan's Mills daily by the trains of the North Pacific Coast R. R., and twice a day with Cloverdale and intermediate points by the trains of the San Francisco and North Pacific R. R.

Los Angeles Co, is situated 35 miles south-east of the city of Los Angeles, and is a terminus of the Wilmington and San Diego Division of the Southern Pacific Railroad. It is a very flourishing town of about 1,500 inhabitants, pleasantly located in the midst of a rich agricultural and fruit-growing section. The town occupies a level site, is nicely laid out with broad streets, and contains a number of substantial brick buildings in the business portion. Many improvements are in progress, and the people feel elated over its bright prospects. An excellent public school is maintained having five teachers, and a daily attendance of about 212 scholars. The churches represented are the Baptist, Methodist Episcopal, Methodist South, Presbyterian, Episcopal, and German Evangelical Association. The secret and benevolent societies organized are the Masons, Odd Fellows, United Order of Workmen, Good Templars, American Legion of Honor, and a post of the Grand Army of the Republic. A public library is maintained, and a free reading room has recently been opened for the public benefit. Two well-conducted papers are published weekly, the Standard and Santa Ana Herald. Daily communication is maintained with Los Angeles by rail, and with San Francisco weekly, via Newport, by the steamers of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co.

Santa Barbara P O,

Santa Barbara Co, county seat and incorporated city of 5,500 inhabitants, is situated on the sea-coast, about 288 miles by water and 360 miles by land, south-east of San Francisco. The harbor is an open roadstead, but the immense growth of sea kelp, which extends to deep water, forms a nearly effectual breakwater, and an excellent wharf 2,000 feet in length affords facilities for receiving and discharging cargo without the use of lighters. This, like some other towns on the coast, was founded by Franciscan Friars, and is the only place in California where that order still maintains a mission. The old church still standing is a long, massive structure, built of stone, occupying a high eminence about two miles from the beach. The city occupies a pleasant site in fine view of the broad expanse of ocean and backed by rolling hills. It is regularly laid out with streets of good width, which cross each other at right angles, and the business portion contains many substantial brick buildings. Among the institutions maintained are four public schools, having an attendance of about six hundred scholars. The Santa Barbara College is an institution of high character, and the building is a handsome, commodious structure. A free library is also maintained, which is well supplied with books and papers.

The orphan children are cared for at the St. Vincent Orphan Asylum, which is the finest building in the city. The organized secret and benevolent societies are the Masons, Odd Fellows, United Workmen, Knights of Pythias, Good Templars, and American Legion of Honor. There is also a Santa Barbara Society of Natural History, Horticultural Society, and Agricultural Association.
The religious denominations represented are the Episcopal, Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian, Unitarian, and Baptist. Two newspapers are published, the Press, daily and weekly, and the Independent, semi-weekly. The city is lighted with gas, and a good supply of water is distributed by the Santa Barbara Water Co. The fire department consists of a hook and ladder and hose companies, and seventeen hydrants furnish a good supply of water for fire purposes. It has a delightful climate, and is noted as a resort for invalids, many of whom come from the Eastern States to convalesce under the influence of its pure, healthful atmosphere. The soil of the surrounding country is very rich, which, with the favorable climate adapts it for the various productions of the semi-tropical as well as the temperate climes. It is also an excellent grazing section, and stock raising as well as fruit growing and farming is carried on to a considerable extent. The incorporation of the company for the extension of the San Luis Obispo and Santa Maria Valley railroad is looked upon as a forerunner of increased prosperity for the city. Stages arrive and depart daily, connecting with the Southern Pacific railroad at Soledad for San Francisco, and at Newhall for other points. Weekly communication is also maintained with San Francisco by the steamers of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co.

Santa Cruz P O,

Santa Cruz Co, county seat and incorporated city of about 4,000 inhabitants, is situated on the north side of the bay of Monterey, 70 miles by water and 80 miles by land south-east of San Francisco. The town is built on the site of the old mission established in 1791, from which it derives its name. The view from the high ground overlooking the city is romantic and picturesque, on one side is seen the mountains towering in scenic grandeur, while on the other is seen the sandy beach stretching out and meeting in easy slope the waves rolling in from the watery expanse which reflects in shimmering silver the beaming rays of the sun. The city is well laid out with wide streets, and the neat and attractive residences, with gardens filled with flowers of various hues, give it an attractive appearance. In the business portion of the city about one-half of the buildings are of brick, a number of which are substantial and handsome edifices. It is a favorite watering place and summer resort. The beach is one of the finest on the coast, and in the summer season presents an animated appearance with its hundreds of bathers sporting in the foamy surf. The climate is mild, and the atmosphere is of that balmy softness experienced only by the admixture of sea and mountain air. As a manufacturing place it is considered one of the most important in the State. The principal industries in this line are the manufacture of lumber, lime, leather, and powder. Farming and dairying are also carried on to a considerable extent in the surrounding country. Four public schools are maintained, having an average attendance of about five hundred scholars. The secret and benevolent societies organized are Masons, Odd Fellows, United Workmen, Knights of Honor, American Legion of Honor, Chosen Friends, Red Men, Good Templars, Sons of Temperance, and Ancient Order of Druids. The churches represented are the Baptist, Episcopal, Methodist, Congregational, Christian, Latter Day Saints, and Roman Catholic. The current news is chronicled by three weekly newspapers, the Santa Cruz Sentinel, Courier Item, and California Transcript. The Santa Cruz Gas Co. furnishes the city with gaslight, and the Santa Cruz Water Co. supplies the thirst-quenching fluid of nature. The fire department consists of a Hook and Ladder Co. and two Hose Cos. Communication is maintained with San Francisco by the South Pacific Coast R. R., also by rail to Pajaro, and stage to Santa Clara, connecting with the trains of the Southern Pacific, and weekly by steamers of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co.

Marin Co, is situated on the bay of San Francisco, six miles distant from the city of San Francisco, with which it is connected by ferry. Previous to the discovery of gold it was frequented by whalers and other vessels that entered the harbor for supplies of water and fuel. Its picturesque situation and pleasant climate, it being free from the high winds which often prevail in the city, make it a favorite resort for picnic parties and other pleasure-seekers.

Vallejo P O,

Solano Co, an incorporated city containing, according to the census of 1880, 6,500 inhabitants, is situated on Vallejo Bay near its junction with the straits of Carquinez, 24 miles north-eastward from San Francisco. It occupies an advantageous site for commercial purposes, the water in the bay being of sufficient depth to allow vessels of a large class to receive and discharge cargo at its wharves. One of the principal supports of the town is Mare Island Navy Yard, situated one-quarter of a mile distant, where at times a large number of men are employed, many of whom reside in Vallejo. The town is well laid out, with streets of good width crossing each other at right angles, and contains many substantial brick edifices. Two public schools are maintained, having an attendance of about twelve hundred pupils. There are six churches including two Baptist, and an Episcopal, Methodist, Presbyterian, and Roman Catholic. The societies represented are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Chosen Friends, Good Templars, and Ancient Order United Workmen. The Good Templars' Home, located about two miles from the city, is a well-conducted and praiseworthy institution. Although under the control of the Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Good Templars, yet its doors are open to homeless orphans of every class. The city is supplied with gas of good quality, and the Vallejo City Water Co. furnish the inhabitants with an abundant supply of water, brought from Lake Chabot, three and a-half miles distant. Two well-conducted journals, the Solano Times and Vallejo Chronicle, are published daily and weekly. The fire department consists of three engine companies, having one steam and two hand engines, three hose companies, and one hook and ladder company. The country surrounding Vallejo is a good agricultural as well as grazing section, and farming, wine and fruit growing, and dairying are extensively carried on. Communication is maintained with San Francisco by steamer and rail, twice a day, and also with Calistoga, Suisun, and other points, by the trains of the California Pacific R. R.

Officers.—E. J. Wilson, A. Powell, C. Widenman, W. W. Skinner, R. J. R. Aden, J. A. Lamont, and O. L. Henderson, Trustees; W. A. Brace, Clerk; Frank T. Winchell, Assessor; J. R. English, Treasurer; David Rutherford, Superintendent of Schools; J. H. Ford, Marshall.

Santa Cruz Co, an incorporated town of about 2,000 inhabitants, is situated in Pajaro

CELEDONIO ORTIZ, Hermosillo, Mexico, WHOLESALE GROCERIES.

Valley on the river of the same name, 99 miles by rail south of San Francisco, and 20 miles south-east of the town of Santa Cruz. It is well laid out, with streets sixty feet in width, shaded by trees on either side, and contains many fine brick buildings and handsome residences. The place maintains three excellent public schools, with an average attendance of five hundred and fifty scholars, and also several churches, including an Episcopalian, Methodist, Presbyterian, Christian, Roman Catholic, and Latter Day Saints. The secret and benevolent societies are well represented by the Masons, Odd Fellows, Ancient Order United Workmen, Knights of Honor, and Patriotic Order Sons of America. Two papers, The Pajaronian and Watsonville Transcript, are published weekly. The valley in which the town is situated is exceedingly fertile, producing large crops of wheat and vegetables. Fruits of different kinds are also grown in abundance. Communication is maintained with San Francisco and other points, via the Santa Cruz and Southern Pacific Railroads.

Officers.—George A. Traf-ton, H. P. Brassel, W. E. Peck, 'L. V. Willets, and J. S. Yoacham, Trustees; G. W. Peckham, Clerk; W. S. Neal, Marshal.

Office, 127 FIRST Street.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

Mining Machinery.

PLANTS for Gold and Silver Mills, embracing the latest and most improved machinery and processes for base and free ores. Water Jacket Smelting Furnaces for silver, lead, and copper ores, with new and important improvements superior to any other make. Hoisting Works, Pumping Machinery, Chloridizing Furnaces, etc. We offer our customers the best results of 30 years' experience in this special line of work, and are prepared to furnish the most approved character of Mining and Reduction Machinery, superior in design and construction to that of any other make, at the lowest possible prices. We also contract to deliver in complete running order, Mills, Furnaces, Hoisting Works, etc., in any of the States and Territories of the Pacific Coast. Estimates given on application. Send for illustrated circular.

WATER JACKET SMELTING FURNACES

— FOR —

Galena-Silver & Copper ORES.

THE PACIFIC WATER JACKET SMELTERS embrace many features that are entirely new and of great practical utility, which are covered by letters patent.

No other furnaces can compare with these for flexibility and in capacity for uninterrupted work.

MORE THAN SIXTY

of them are now running on the Pacific Coast, giving results never before obtained as regards economy in running, economy of fuel, grade and quality of bullion produced. We are prepared to furnish estimates on all the claims here made.

These Smelters are shipped in a complete state, requiring no brick or stone work, except that for the crucible, thus saving great expense and loss of time in construction.

Complete smelting plants made to order of any capacity, and with all the improvements that experience has suggested as valuable in this class of machinery. Skilled and experienced smelters furnished when desired to examine mines and to superintend construction and running of furnaces. Estimates given upon application. Send for circular.

F. W. KROGH & CO. Latest Improved Self-Regulating Wind-Mills AND HORSE-POWERS.

Successors to W. I. TUSTIN,

Manufacturers and Patentees of the Latest Improved Tanks and all kinds of Pumping Machinery. ALSO Factory and Office 51 BEALE ST., Bet. Market and Mission, San Francisco.

Krogh's Patent, latest improved self-regulating Windmill, and first premium Horse-Power, for all purposes, such as pumping water, chopping feed, churning, sawing wood, running machinery for manufacturing, mechanical or other purposes.

Our latest improved self-regulating Windmill, patented March 15th, 1881, is warranted to be the best wind machine ever invented; very simple in construction, strong and durable, will pump more water than any Windmill now in use, and once put up, they require no attention whatever, except oiling. They are built to withstand and adapt themselves to the fury of the gale, as well as to light breezes, and to work steadily WITHOUT EXPENSE.

Our Horse-Powers are complete in every detail, and possess every improvement and advantage that can be combined in such machines. They are provided with air-tight, dust-proof, self-oiling journals. Two men can take either of them apart, and put them together again with ease.

Tanks, Pumps, Pipes, Pulleys, Shafting, etc. Furnished to Order.

The Dairy Queen, designed especially for use of Dairymen. The Eclipse, for 1 horse. The Economy, for 1 or 2 horses.

$1000 CHALLENGE

THE FRUE ORE CONCENTRATOR.

Over 350 are now in use, giving entire satisfaction. Awarded First Premium and Silver Medal at the Industrial Fair for 1880 of the Mechanic's Institute of San Francisco, Cal.

Saves from 50 to 100 per cent. more than any other Concentrator in use, and the concentrations are clean from the first working. The wear and tear are merely nominal: the water required is less than in any other wet Concentrator; the power required per machine is less than one-half horse power; the labor required is light, one man on a watch can attend to sixteen machines.

We challenge any other Concentrator in use for a fair and impartial competitive trial, side by side, for stakes of $1000 each; and we mean business.

ST. MARY'S HALL, BENICIA, CALIFORNIA.

THIS Seminary of Learning is intended to furnish such an education for the Daughters of the Pacific Slope as will contribute to make them noble Christian women, and fit them for the duties of life. The situation of St. Mary's Hall is exceedingly beautiful, commanding a charming view of Carquinez Straits, Mt. Diablo, and a wide range of picturesque scenery, and is unusually healthful.

The grounds are extensive, tastefully laid out, and adorned with trees, shrubs, flowers, gravelled walks, arbors and fountains, which render them attractive and delightful. The edifice was especially designed for school purposes, and is commodious, pleasant, and very homelike. It is lighted with gas, and supplied with purewater, having hot and cold baths. In its arrangement of rooms and alcoves, it provides varied accommodations, and enables a pupil to graduate her expenses.

THE COURSE OF INSTRUCTION embraces all the usual branches of study deemed necessary by our best educators; while the polite accomplishments receive especial attention. The Regular Collegiate Course occupies three years, and diplomas are conferred on those who complete it.

ADMISSION. Pupils will be admitted at any time, but it is very desirable that they should report themselves promptly at the beginning of the terms. That pupils may be properly provided for, patrons should, whenever practicable, make application beforehand, and state the number of pupils for whom accommodations are desired, and the anticipated time of arrival.

All communications should be addressed,

REV. L. DELOS MANSFIELD, A. M., Rector of St. Mary's Hall.

This incorporated Institution has been well known on the Pacific Coast for fifteen years as a thorough and well disciplined Boarding School for Boys.

THE COURSE OF STUDY is arranged for SEVEN CLASSES, in THREE DEPARTMENTS, viz: CLASSICAL, LITERARY, and SCIENTIFIC. Graduates should be prepared to enter the Sophomore Class in the corresponding Departments of the University of California.

THE MILITARY TRAINING, under a Resident Commandant, imparts strength to the body, and offers unusual facilities for instruction in Drill with Sabre, Musket, and Bayonet.

THE DOMESTIC DEPARTMENT is in charge of an experienced Matron. Attention is paid to Personal Habits and Manners of the Students. The Professors and Cadets occupy the same buildings, and meet as one family in a commodious Dining Hall, and worship together in the College Chapel.

The Terms Open on the last Tuesday in July and the second Tuesday in January.

Early application advisable in order to secure a place. Number of cadets limited to 100. For full particulars address the President,

CLIMATE AND HEALTHFULNESS
—OF—
MONTEREY
THE
Most Delightful Summer Pleasure Resort
AND
WINTER SANITARIUM
ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

The weather at Monterey is not so warm either in summer or winter as in other parts of California further south, but there is an even temperature that can be found nowhere else. From January to December, year in and year out, there is neither summer nor winter weather. Indeed, the weather at Monterey, from one year's end to another, partakes of that delightful interlude known in the East and South as "Indian Summer." The same balmy zephyrs breathe a delicious atmosphere all the year round, and summer and winter, so-called, serenely face each other, and exchange compliments.

It will be seen by the annexed table that Monterey has only one rival, (Honolulu) in equability of temperature. It must be understood, however, that there is a good deal of hot, disagreeable weather on the islands, and a multiplicity of drawbacks which Monterey does not possess. There are seldom any high, cold winds at and around Monterey, and never any hot ones.

The following carefully prepared table presents the

Albina P O,

Multnomah Co, is situated on the east side of the Willamette River, about one mile north of East Portland. Three-quarters of a mile below the town the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co. have commenced the construction of a dry dock, which will be 400 feet long, 100 feet wide at the top, 45 feet at the bottom, and 50 feet deep. A steam ferry maintains communication with Portland.

Astoria P O,

Clatsop Co, an incorporated city, and county seat, is situated on the south side of the Columbia River, 12 miles from the ocean. It is the oldest town in the State of Oregon, a trading post having been established at this point in 1811, by John Jacob Astor, of New York. The city occupies a site at the base of a mountain ridge, and is divided into two sections, known as Upper and Lower Astoria, which are connected by a bridge about a mile in length. The stores and other business places are built principally over the water, on piles, and the residences on the hill-sides above. The population, according to the census of 1880, was 2,753, and at the present time is estimated at 4,000. Salmon canning is the chief industry carried on, and during the fishing season gives employment to from 2,000 to 2,500 men. In 1866 there was but one cannery in operation on the Columbia River, and the number of cases packed was 4,000, the value of which was $16 per case, or $64,000. At the present time there are about thirty-eight canneries in operation on the river, eighteen of which are located at Astoria. During the year 1881 the number of cases packed was 550,000, valued at $5 per case. The town contains several manufactories, including two saw-mills, a box factory, an iron foundry, and machine works, also several boat building establishments. Three public schools are maintained, but the accommodations are insufficient for the number of scholars. In addition to these are two private schools, which are well attended. Several churches are maintained, including the Baptist, Episcopal, Presbyterian, Methodist, and Roman Catholic. The secret societies organized are the

Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order United Workmen, and Good Templars. A well-conducted hospital, the St Mary's, under the supervision of the Sisters of Providence, affords good accommodations for the sick. The city jail, recently erected at a cost of about $20,000, is a substantial stone building 50 by 80 feet, and two stories high. The custom-house and post-office building is a fine, two-story stone structure, erected in 1873, at a cost of $80,000. The city has a good fire department, the apparatus consisting of two steam engines and a hook and ladder truck. One of the engines is considered the finest on the coast, being one of the number awarded a prize at the Centennial Exhibition of 1876. There are also four steam tugs, with couplings to fit the fire hose, and three steam pumps on the water front, with a hose cart for each. Water is distributed by two companies, but the supply, which is obtained from a spring and gulch in the mountains overlooking the city, is insufficient, and private tanks are considerably depended upon. The Astorian, published daily and weekly, advocates the interests of the section. Communication is maintained with San Francisco every four days by the steamers of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co., daily with Portland, and way points on the Columbia river, Knappton and Skipanon, tri-weekly with Fort Stevens, Fort Canby, and Ilwaco, and weekly with Young's River.

East Portland P O,

Multnomah Co, an incor-porated city, is pleasantly situated on the east side of the Willamette River, directly op-posite the city of Portland. On the water front considerable of the land is low, subject to overflow, and a portion inter-sected with sloughs. Thence gradually rising and rolling for a short distance, it merges into an alternately level and undu-lating country, affording excel-lent advantages for building purposes. The city presents a thriving aspect, and its advantageous location, together with the fertility of the surrounding country, insures its future prosperity. It is nicely laid out with streets of good width, and contains some substantial brick buildings and fine residences. The population, according to the census of 1880, was 3918, and is now estimated at 5,000. It is the terminus of the east side division of the Oregon and California Railroad, and upon completion of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co.'s road from Walla Walla to this point, will be virtually, for a time at least, a terminus of the Northern Pacific. Two excellent public schools are maintained, having an attendance of six hundred and eighty scholars. The churches organized are the Baptist, Methodist Episcopal, Congregational, Episcopal, Scandinavian, German Lutheran, Catholic, and United Brethren. Of secret and benevolent societies there are Masons, Odd Fellows, Ancient Order United Workmen, Chosen Friends, and Patriotic Order Sons of America. A hook and ladder company constitutes the full force of the fire department. An excellent supply of water is distributed through the city, from a spring which is said to be the largest in the State, pouring forth a volume of about 400,000 gallons in twenty-four hours. The Hospital for the Insane, located here, is a well-conducted institution, and contains at the present time three hundred and forty patients. Upon the completion of the new State Asylum at Salem, it is to be changed into a Reform School. The East Portland

Vindicator, a well-conducted paper, published weekly, advocates the interests of the section. Communication is maintained daily by rail with Roseburg, Lebanon, and Brownsville, and twice a day with Albany. Three steam ferries connect it with Portland.

Coos Co, situated on the southern shore of Coos Bay, is a thriving town of about 800 inhabitants. This portion of the State is noted for its excellent timber lands and vast coal deposits, the industries of lumber manufacturing and coal mining being extensively carried on. Another important industry of this section is ship building; there being in the vicinity of the bay an almost inexhaustible supply of timber admirably adapted for that purpose. It is in contemplation to continue the improvements to the harbor already commenced, so as to assure an ample depth of water at its entrance, and also make it available to a certain extent as a harbor of refuge. Another important measure in view is the construction of a railroad to Roseburg, or some other point in the grain-producing section of the State. These improvements, when carried out, will make Coos Bay one of the most important commercial centers on the coast. Two papers, the Coos Bay News and Coast Mail, are published weekly.

Portland P O,

Multnomah Co. an incorporated city and county seat, and the chief commercial metropolis of the North-west or Columbian region, is beautifully located on the west side of the Willamette River, 12 miles from its confluence with the Columbia, in latitude 45° 30', longitude 122° 27' 30". The city is built on a plateau gradually rising southward and westward, and extends along the river for a distance of nearly two miles, and from one half to one and a half miles from the bank of the river to the mountains, which form the background to a charming picture. Standing upon an eminence west of the town, the view is at once picturesque and grand. From the bustle and confusion of the city spreading out immediately in front and below, the eye is relieved for a moment, as it were, by the placid waters of the beautiful Willamette, with the numerous small craft plying to and fro, and resuming its flight with a glance at busy little East Portland and across the majestic Columbia, wanders over the vast expanse of pine-covered Washington Territory, until arrested and held entranced by the mountain peaks of St. Helens, Adams, Rainier, and Jefferson, towering into eternal snow, like giant sentinels of nature guarding the great north-west. In the winter of 1843 and 44, the sound of the axe first reverberated through the dense firs and echoed the key-note of progress which was to metamorphose the romantic wild of nature into the present bustling and thriving metropolis. At that time the first cabin, a rude log structure, was built, and in July, 1845, the town site was laid out. In January, 1851, it was incorporated as a city, the population having increased to about 1,000. During the last few years it has made giant strides, trade and population increasing with wonderful rapidity, and it now ranks among the leading cities of the Pacific Coast. A large scope of country, including the fertile valley of the Willamette, and the vast wheat fields of eastern Washington Territory, at present contributes materially to the wealth and prosperity of the city, and upon the completion of the Northern Pacific and other contemplated roads, extending through rich agricultural and mining sections, the volume of trade will be largely increased. The population according to the census of 1880 was 21,600, and is now estimated to be 25,000. The city is regularly laid out in blocks of 200 feet, with broad macadamized streets. The business portion contains many massive and handsome buildings and blocks, which, together with its elegant residences beautified with gardens, gives it a substantial and attractive appearance. A source of wealth and prosperity is indicated by the large excess of export over import values. During the year 1881 the imports amounted to $639,316, and the exports to $6,387,385. The principal articles of export were wheat and flour (4,076,508 bushels of wheat and 337,395 barrels of flour), which amounted to $5,249,543. The city boasts the finest customs and post-office building on the Pacific Coast — a handsome structure three stories high, 80 by 100 feet, surmounted with a cupola, constructed of Bellingham Bay freestone, and finished on the inside with native ash, erected at a cost of about $400,000. Among the various manufacturing establishments within the limits of the city are three steam saw-mills, the largest of which has a daily capacity of 150,000 feet, six iron foundries and machine works, a stove foundry, planing mills, sash and door factories, and box factories, giving employment to a large number of men. Excellent schools and well-attended churches contribute to the moral and intellectual advancement of the city. Five public schools are maintained, having an attendance of about 2,000 scholars. In addition to these, are several colleges and seminaries of a high character, including St. Hellen's Hall, Bishop Scott Grammar School, St. Michael's College, and St. Mary's Academy. There are also two commercial colleges, which are well attended. The churches are represented by nearly every creed and sect. The Portland Seamen's Friend Society have recently erected a commodious, four-story brick building, to be called the "Mariners Home of Portland," at a cost of $10,000. Of secret and benevolent societies, there are Masons, Odd Fellows, Knight of Pythias, Red Men, Ancient Order United Workmen, Ancient Order of Foresters, Good Templars, and Ancient Order of Hibernians. There is also a St. Andrews Society, Turn Verein, and Olympic Club. A library, containing about 11,000 volumes, is maintained by the Portland Library Association, which has a membership of about 300. There is also a Public School Library, the Odd Fellows' Library, and another maintained by the Catholic Library Association. The sick are cared for at the St. Vincent de Paul's Hospital, conducted by the Sisters of the Mother House of Providence, and the Good Samaritan Hospital, under the auspices of the Episcopal church. Besides the organizations already enumerated, there is a Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, and Merchants' Exchange. The fire department is a volunteer one, consisting of six companies, having steam engines and a hook and ladder company. There are fourteen hydrants for fire purposes, located principally in the business portion, and sixty cisterns of from 15,000 to 20,000 gallons capacity. A telegraph fire alarm, with fourteen alarm boxes, is also maintained. The city is illuminated with gas, and the Portland Water Co. furnishes the necessary supply of water. A street railroad traverses the line of First Street, and others are projected. The climate is mild, there being no great extremes of heat or cold. The winter or rainy season begins about the middle of October and ends about the first of May. The rains are most frequent and copious during the months of December, January and March. Snow falls at times during the winter months, but generally to a slight extent, and ice is formed in occasional years to a thickness of several inches. As recorded by the U. S. Signal Service Observer, the highest and lowest temperature during the year 1881 was 57 maximum, 24 minimum, in January; and 90.5 maximum, 46.3 minimum, in July. The total rainfall during the same year was 83.25 inches, distributed as follows: January, 8.57; February, 13.36; March, 2.83; April, 3.51; May, 1.38; June, 2.34; July, 1.16; August, 2.11; September, 2.64; October, 6.60; November, 6.91; December, 6.64. Three well-conducted journals, the Oregonian, Standard, and Telegram, are published daily, and a number of others weekly and monthly, including two published weekly in the German language. Communication is maintained daily by trains of the Oregon and California R. R. Co., with Roseburg, Corvallis, Lebanon, and intermediate points, connecting with trains of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co., for Brownsville, Sheridan, and Airlie, and also by steamers and trains of the latter company with The Dalles, Walla Walla, and other places in eastern Washington Territory, and points on the Willamette and Columbia rivers, connecting at Kalama with trains of the Northern Pacific R. R. Co., for New Tacoma. Communication is maintained with San Francisco every four days, by the steamers of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co.

Officers.—J A Chapman, Mayor; W L Chittenden, Henry Hewett, Charles Holman, W B Honeyman, J B Kellogg, J S Ralleigh, W A Scoggins, J E Smith and W H Adams, Councilmen; R L Durham, Auditor and Clerk; D C Mc Kercher, Treasurer; S W Rice, Attorney; D W Taylor, Surveyor; William Braden, Superintendent of Streets; L B

New Tacoma P O,

Pierce Co, county seat and incorporated city, is pleasantly situated on an arm of Puget Sound, 143 miles north of Portland, and 24 miles south of Seattle. It is the terminus of the Western Division of the Northern Pacific R. R., a branch of which extends up the Puyallup Valley to the coal fields at Carbonado. The city presents a flourishing appearance, and is rapidly growing in business and population. Having a fine harbor, and being the most available shipping point for a large scope of country containing excellent agricultural and timber lands and extensive deposits of coal, New Tacoma will, no doubt, continue to maintain a prominent position among the leading business localities of the North-west. The number of inhabitants, according to the census of 1880, was 648, which has since increased to over 2,000. A steam saw-mill, having a daily capacity of 40,000 feet, an iron foundry, and the car shops of the Northern Pacific Railroad give employment to quite a number of men. No county buildings have as yet been erected, the county seat having but recently been removed from Steilacoom. Two public schools are maintained, having an attendance of about one hundred and ninety scholars. The secret and benevolent societies organized are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order of United Workmen, and Good Templars. The churches represented are the Methodist, Congregational, Presbyterian, Episcopal, and Roman Catholic. The New Tacoma Water Company furnishes a supply of pure water, obtained from springs on the hillside. Two newspapers, the Weekly Ledger and Pierce County News, are published weekly. Daily communication is maintained by steamer with Seattle, Port Townsend, and way ports, tri-weekly with Victoria, B. C., and tri-monthly with San Francisco. The trains of the Northern Pacific run daily to Kalama, and up the Puyallup Valley to Carbonado.

Olympia P O,

Thurston Co, capital of the Territory, county seat, and incorporated city of about 1,400 inhabitants, situated 67 miles south-west of Seattle, occupies a picturesque site on a peninsula at the head of Puget Sound. It is considered the garden city of Western Washington Territory, and is regularly laid out, with wide streets, shaded with trees on either side. From the point of the peninsula for about three-quarters of a mile, the ground is nearly level, and from thence gradually rising to the hills, which overlook the sound for a distance of about fifteen miles. The ravages of the fire fiend have recently devastated the business portion of the city; but the zeal displayed by the people in overcoming obstacles in the past insure for it a finer and more substantial appearance when rebuilt. In the vicinity are excellent agricultural and timber lands. Coal is found within a few miles of the city, and six miles southwest are extensive iron beds of bog and magnetic ore. Oysters of an excellent quality are found in the vicinity, in great abundance, and about $30,000 worth are annually shipped to other points. The advantages for manufacturing enterprise are excellent. The water front is about two miles in extent, and an enormous water power could be obtained from the Des Chutes River, which has a fall of ninety feet in a distance of one-half mile. Two public schools are maintained having a daily attendance of about three hundred scholars. The Union Academy is an institution of a high order, and has about one hundred pupils. The building, a handsome, three-story brick, built in the form of a Latin cross, and surmounted with a cupola, is considered one of the best in the Territory. A library is maintained by the Territorial Government, which has ten thousand volumes, and contains works of rare value. The Tacoma Library Association has about five hundred volumes. The capitol building is a spacious, two-story wooden structure, occupying a commanding site on the hillside, overlooking the sound. The secret and benevolent societies organized are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Champions of the Red Cross, Ancient Order United Workmen, and Good Templars. The religious element is represented by the Episcopal, Baptist, Presbyterian, Methodist, Unitarian, Congregational, and Roman Catholic churches. Three papers, the Olympia Transcript, Washington Standard, and Puget Sound Courier, are published weekly. The fire department consists of an engine company, having a hand engine and a hook and ladder company. Cisterns are located at the corners of the principal streets in the business portion, and a fire plug on the main street. An abundant supply of good water is obtained direct from three lakes, fed by springs, located in the hills two hundred feet above the city. The temperature and rainfall, as recorded by the U. S. Signal Service Observer, during the year 1881, was as follows: Rainfall, January, 8.90 inches; February, 16.28; March, 4.03; April, 4.93; May, 1.54; June, 1.93; July, 0.98; August, 0.71; September, 2.47; October, 8.18; November, 6.75; December, 8.26. Temperature, January, maximum, 53 deg., minimum, 23 deg.; July, maximum, 87 deg., minimum, 41 deg. Communication is maintained daily with Seattle and intermediate points by steamer, and with Tenino by the Olympia and Tenino Railroad, connecting at the latter place with the Northern Pacific Railroad, for Seattle, Kalama, and other intermediate points; also every five days by steamer, with Arcadia, connecting at that place with lines for Oyster Bay, Elma, Montesano, Gray's Harbor, and Seabeck.

Port Townsend P O,

Jefferson Co, county seat, incorporated city, and Port of Entry for Puget Sound District, about 40 miles north-west of Seattle, occupies one of the most beautiful and charming sites on the sound. The location is on Port Townsend Bay, at the junction of the Strait of Juan de Fuca and Admiralty Inlet. The business portion of the city is built upon the beach, at the base of a bluff rising nearly perpendicular to a height of about seventy-five feet. The bay, which is about seven miles long and three miles wide, is a beautiful sheet of water, and one of the best harbors on the sound, affording safe anchorage at all times. Although exhibiting in a less degree than some other places on the sound the business "boom" of the Northwest, there is an air of prosperity here indicating a basis of permanence and solidity which augurs well for its future. The population, according to the census of 1880, was 917, and is now estimated to be about 1,100. It is in contemplation to construct a railroad from this point to Olympia, a company having been organized for this purpose. In the vicinity are good agricultural and grazing lands and a vast extent of choice timber lands. At Irondale, six miles distant, are extensive iron beds of brown hematite, or bog-ore, covering an area of about two miles square. A large saw-mill is to be erected during the present year, which will contribute materially to the prosperity of the town. An excellent paper, the Puget Sound Argus, is published weekly. A public school is maintained, having an attendance of about 130 scholars. There are organized lodges of Masons, Odd Fellows, Red Men, Ancient Order United Workmen, and Good Templars. There are several churches, including the Presbyterian, Episcopal, Methodist, and Roman Catholic. The fire department consists of one company, having a hand engine. The water for domestic purposes is obtained from private wells, there being no water company. The climate is mild and exceedingly healthful. Communication is maintained by steamer daily with Seattle, New Tacoma, and other points on the sound; tri-weekly with Victoria, B. C.; weekly with Neah Bay, San Juan, Friday Harbor, East Sound, Semiahmoo, etc.; also tri-monthly with San Francisco, and monthly with Alaska. Stage connection is maintained daily with Port Discovery.

Pierce Co, is a thriving town pleasantly situated in Puyallup Valley, 12 miles east of New Tacoma, on the Puyallup branch of the Northern Pacific Railroad. The valley is about 28 miles long and 5 miles wide. It is exceedingly fertile, and is considered one of the best valleys in the Territory. Hop raising is the principal industry of this section, about seven hundred tons being grown annually. During the picking season about two thousand Indians are employed gathering the crop. The town contains a large barrel factory and a sash and door factory. The trains of the Northern Pacific afford daily communication with New Tacoma and Carbonado.

Seattle P O,

King Co, an incorporated city and county seat, and the chief commercial town of western Washington Territory, is advantageously situated on Elliott Bay, an arm of Puget Sound, 167 miles north of Portland. The city, which is built at the base and on the sides of a hill, commanding a fine view of the sound and surrounding pine-covered hills, presents an animated and thriving appearance, and is rapidly increasing in population and trade. The number of inhabitants, according to the census of 1880, was 3,661, and is now estimated at about 5,000. The harbor is an excellent one, free from obstructions, and with sufficient depth of water at the wharves for vessels of the largest class. When, by means of contemplated roads, Seattle is brought in direct communication with the vast and fertile fields of eastern Washington, and other rich agricultural and mineral sections, the sanguine hopes of its citizens that it will yet become the chief commercial metropolis of the North-west may be realized. The principal resources of this section are its extensive timber lands and coal-fields, the manufacture of lumber and coal-mining being the principal industries carried on. During the year 1881, there was shipped from this point 150,000 tons of coal brought from the mines of Newcastle and Renton, with which Seattle is connected by rail. As a manufacturing locality, the city has attained an advanced position, there being in operation at the present time three saw-mills, four sash and door factories, four iron foundries, three boiler works, a barrel manufactory, an establishment for the manufacture of agricultural implements, and two ship-yards. In the business portion there are a number of large and substantial brick buildings, and many of the residences are well constructed, and present an attractive appearance. Five public schools are maintained, having an attendance of about five hundred and forty scholars. The accommodations, however, are inadequate for the number of children enrolled, some two hundred being unprovided for. The building of a new school-house is contemplated, to cost about $25,000. The Territorial University, a public institution maintained by appropriations, has twelve professors and teachers, and an attendance of one hundred students. This university recently received from Henry Villard a donation of $1,000, the last Legislature refusing to appropriate the necessary money for its maintenance. In addition to these institutions of learning is a parish school, under the auspices of the Episcopal Church and the Academy of Holy Names. A library is maintained at the University, consisting of books belonging to the institution and those of the Seattle Library Association. The secret and benevolent societies represented are the Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order United Workmen, Grand Army of the Republic, and Good Templars. The religious denominations are the Episcopal, Congregational, Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, and Roman Catholic. The Seattle Gas Light Company furnishes the city with light, and water is supplied by several individuals from springs in the hills back of the city. The fire department is a volunteer one, having one steam-engine, drawn by horses, and a hand engine. Seven cisterns are located in convenient places, having a capacity of 90,000 gallons; but water from the sound is the main dependence in case of fire. Two well-conducted papers, the Post-Intelligencer and the Chronicle, are published daily and weekly. The climate is mild. Considerable rain falls during the autumn, winter, and spring months; but the summers are very pleasant. Excessive cold is not experienced in the winter, but snow falls at times to the depth of a few inches. Communication is maintained by steamer daily with Port Townsend, Port Blakely, Olympia, Steilacoom, and New Tacoma, connecting at latter place with the trains of the Northern Pacific Railroad, also tri-weekly with Victoria, and tri-monthly with San Francisco. The trains of the Columbia and Puget Sound Railroad run daily to Renton and Newcastle.

Officers. — H. G. Struve, Mayor; U. M. Rasin, C. F. Clancy, Charles McDonald, John Collins, Frederick Gasch, O. F. Casher, and G. L. Manning, Councilmen; E. S. Osborne, Clerk; L. S. Pierce Co, an incorporated city of about 400 inhabitants, is pleasantly situated on Puget Sound, about 23 miles northeast of Olympia. During the past year the county seat was removed from this place to New Tacoma; and since that time the business of the town has seriously declined. The lands in the vicinity are better adapted for grazing purposes than farming; and sheep raising is the principal pursuit carried on. About $25,000 worth of wool is annually shipped from this point. It is connected with Olympia, New Tacoma, and Seattle, by steamer; and with Lakeview, a station on the Northern Pacific R. R., by stage.

Vancouver P O,

Clarke Co, county seat and incorporated city, is situated on the north side of the Columbia River, 17 miles from Portland by water, and 6 miles in a direct line. It is one of the oldest locations in Washington Territory, having been first settled by the Hudson Bay Co., and for a long time their principal trading post. The site is a plateau with gradual ascending slope from the river front, and is one of the finest townsites on the Columbia. It has an excellent water front of sufficient depth for vessels of the largest class. It is regularly laid out with wide streets, and presents a prosperous and attractive appearance. The population, according to the census of 1880, was 1,722, and is now estimated to number about 2,000. A public school is maintained, having an attendance of 186 scholars. The Holy Angels' College, under the auspices of the Roman Catholic Church, is a boarding and day school for boys, and has an attendance of about 75 scholars. The Mother House of Providence, located here, has the finest building in the city, a large, imposing, three-story brick structure. Connected with this institution is a boarding and day school for girls, having about 60 scholars, an Orphan Asylum, and Home for the Aged. The sick find excellent care at the St Joseph's Hospital. The churches organized are the Episcopal, Methodist Episcopal, and Roman Catholic. Of secret and benevolent societies, there are lodges of Masons, Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, Ancient Order United Workmen, Chosen Friends, and Good Templars. A library is maintained by the Odd Fellows, consisting of about 450 volumes. The fire department consists of four companies, three of which have hand engines, and the other a hook and ladder truck. There is one hydrant and also six cisterns for fire use. The city is furnished with an excellent supply of water, obtained from springs four miles distant. Two well-conducted papers are published weekly, the Vancouver Independent and Clarke County Register. Communication is maintained daily with Portland and points on the Columbia, by the steamers of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Co.

New Westminster P O,

New Westminster District, an incorporated city of about 2,000 inhabitants, occupies a picturesque site on the north bank of the Fraser River, about 15 miles distant from its mouth, and 70 miles north-east of Victoria. The town is built on ground gradually rising from the water's edge, affording a magnificent view of the surrounding country, embracing the beautiful islands in the vicinity, clothed in evergreen garb, and the lofty and snow-capped peaks of the Olympic and Cascade ranges. As a business center, the place has assumed considerable importance, it being the distributing point for localities on the Fraser River, as well as other places in the interior. In the vicinity are excellent farming, grazing, and timber lands, which, together with the salmon fisheries, are the principal resources of the section. The Canadian Pacific Railroad, now six miles distant, will, when completed, afford direct communication with a large scope of undeveloped country, and contribute materially to the prosperity of the place. The town contains several churches of different denominations, and a number of excellent schools, which are well attended. Two newspapers, the Mainland Guardian and British Columbian, furnish the inhabitants the news of the day. Communication is maintained with Victoria twice a week by steamer.

Victoria P O,

Victoria District, the capital and metropolis of British Columbia, is situated at the south-eastern extremity of Vancouver Island, 65 miles in an easterly direction from the Pacific Ocean, in latitude 48° 25' 20", longitude 123° 22' 24". The town occupies a pleasant site on nearly level or easy rolling ground, with an occasional eminence, affording a fine view of the surrounding country. It has a land-locked harbor nearly circular in form, which can only be entered by vessels of light draft; but ships of the largest class can find safe anchorage at Esquimault, three miles' distant. From an obscure trading post, established by the Hudson Bay Company in 1837, Victoria has rapidly risen to her present important commercial position, her growth being considerably accelerated by the discovery of the gold fields of Fraser River and Cariboo. The varied resources of this section, including excellent farming, grazing, and timber lands, extensive coal beds and salmon fisheries, assure the continued growth and prosperity of the place. The city is well laid out with wide streets crossing each other at right angles, and contains many substantial brick and stone stores, and several handsome public buildings, including the Post-office, Custom House and City Hall. Among the manufacturing establishments in successful operation are three iron foundries and machine shops, a stove foundry, boiler works, sash and door factory, furniture factory, a steam saw-mill, two boot and shoe factories; also four ship yards, which in the aggregate give employment to a large number of men. An excellent public school is maintained, having an average attendance of about four hundred and fifty scholars, the number enrolled being about eight hundred. The building, a handsome brick edifice, three stories high, with a mansard roof and cupola, was erected at a cost of $35,000.

In addition to this institution there are a number of seminaries and private schools of a high character. The city is well supplied with churches, a number of which are large and handsome edifices. The denominations represented are the Episcopal, Presbyterian, Reformed Episcopal, Baptist, Methodist, Hebrew, and Roman Catholic. Among the secret and benevolent organizations are lodges of Masons, Odd Fellows, Ancient Order of Foresters, Ancient Order United Workmen, and the British Columbia Benevolent, St. Andrews, and Caledonian Societies. The Mechanics' Literary Institute, which is in flourishing condition, have commodious reading rooms well supplied with papers, and a library of 4,500 volumes. Another library maintained by the Odd Fellows contains 1,500 volumes. The Protestant Orphans' Home, a worthy institution, sustained by contributions, provides for the care and education of the fatherless and motherless. In addition to the societies already enumerated there is a Board of Trade and the British Columbia Trades Protection Society. The Dominion Government Telegraph and Victoria and Esquimault Telephone Co, afford the inhabitants facilities for rapid communication with various points. An abundant supply of good water is brought from a lake seven miles distant. The water works, as well as the gas works, are under the control of the city authorities, and both water and gas are furnished to the inhabitants at actual cost. For protection against the ravages of the fire fiend is a volunteer fire department and telephone fire alarm. The apparatus consists of two steam engines drawn by horses, two hand engines, and a hook and ladder truck. Two ably conducted and enterprising journals, The British Colonist and Victoria Standard, are published daily and weekly. The climate of this section is mild and exceedingly healthful. The maximum temperature during the summer months is from 80° to 90°. In the winter ice forms at times of sufficient thickness for skating purposes and snow falls to the depth of a few inches. Rains are frequent during the fall, winter and summer months. Communication is maintained by steamer with New Westminster and Nanaimo bi-weekly; with Port Townsend tri-weekly; with San Francisco tri-monthly, and with ports in Alaska monthly.

Officers.—Noah Shakespeare, Mayor; John Boyd, John Kinsman, J. Wrigglersworth, E. C. Baker, Walter Shears, Douglas Warren, and Alexander Wilson, Councilmen; Thomas Russell, Assessor and Collector; William Leigh, Clerk; J. D. Robinson, Auditor; D. M. Harris, Surveyor; A. F. ## MEXICO

Business Directory and Gazetteer.

Acapulco,

State of Guerrero, a town of about 4,200 inhabitants, is the principal sea-port on the coast of Mexico south of Mazatlan. It has one of the best natural harbors on the Pacific, and will no doubt rapidly increase in population and trade when connected by rail with the fertile agricultural districts of the interior. From this point is the nearest and most direct road from the Pacific Coast to the City of Mexico. The principal productions of the surrounding country are cotton, coffee, cocoa, indigo, cochineal, dye woods, and tropical fruits of various kinds. The cotton crop the last season amounted to 1,200,000 pounds, all of which was consumed at the cotton factories in the vicinity. The total value of the imports of 1881 was $333,100, and the exports $193,500. Communication is maintained with San Francisco, Panama, and way ports by the steamers of the Pacific Mail S. S. Co., which touch twice a month.

Agia Bampo,

Is a small harbor on the Gulf of California, about 150 miles south of Guaymas. It is the sea-port of Alamos, a flourishing interior town about 70 miles distant, with which it is connected by stage. A small steamer maintains communication with Mazatlan twice a month.

Torres y Goyeneche, comisionistas y corredores, commission merchants and brokers.

Altar,

Is a small but flourishing town in the State of Sonora, situated about 130 miles northwest of Hermosillo. In this section are excellent grazing lands and some good farming land; but the principal support of the town are the mines in the vicinity, some of which have been developed to a considerable extent, and produced ore of a high grade.

Altata,

State of Sinaloa, is situated on the Gulf of California, at the mouth of the Rio de Culiacan, 150 miles in a northerly direction from Mazatlan. A railroad is now in course of construction from this point to Culiacan, the capital of the State, 50 miles distant. It has a good natural harbor, but wharves and other facilities for shipping are required to make it accessible. The country back of Altata, including the valley of the Culiacan, is exceedingly fertile, producing excellent crops of wheat, sugarcane, tobacco, corn, etc. Communication is maintained with Mazatlan twice a month by steamer, and with Culiacan twice a week by stage.

Roiz José, corredor de aduana, custom house broker

Caborca,

State of Sonora, is situated on the Caborca River, a few miles distant from Altar.

Borquez y Garcia, mercaderias general, general merchandise Serrano Jesus de D, mercaderias general y hotel, general merchandise and hotel

Cape St. Lucas,

Is a small settlement situated at the extreme southern point of Lower California. In the vicinity are excellent grazing lands, over which roam large herds of cattle. Stock raising is the principal pursuit carried on, and hides the chief article of export. The steamers of the California and Mexican S. S. Co. touch on their trips up and down the coast, and when necessary the Pacific Mail steamers call for mails or passengers.

Ceceña Francisco, mercaderias general y comerciante de ganado, general merchandise and cattle dealer

Green Ildefonso, mercaderias general y comerciante de ganado, general merchandise and cattle dealer

Guaymas,

State of Sonora. a town of about 7,000 inhabitants, and the second port in commercial importance on the west coast of Mexico, is situated on the eastern shore of the Gulf of California, about half way between Cape St. Lucas and the mouth of the Colorado River. The place presents rather an uninviting appearance, being on low land and almost surrounded by barren hills. The streets are irregularly laid out, and many of the buildings are very inferior structures. It is, however, of considerable importance as a commercial center, and several well-known and wealthy firms carry on an extensive business. The harbor is commodious and safe, being almost land locked, and will admit vessels of a large class. It is the port of entry for nearly all supplies destined for Sonora, and also for a portion of Chihuahua and Lower California. The principal exports are flour, bullion, ores, and hides, the flour being shipped exclusively to coast ports. The imports for the year ending December 31st, 1881, were as follows: From the United States $298,037.63, and from Europe $149,077.53. The exports during the same period amounted to $466,483. Among the institutions maintained is a Roman Catholic Church, a commodious brick edifice which is well attended. There are four public schools, two for boys and two for girls, which have an attendance of from sixty to eighty pupils each. There are also three private schools. The benevolent societies are represented by a Masonic Lodge, which is the only order that has as yet organized. There are two hospitals, one known as the Hospital Civil is maintained by the municipal authorities. It is well conducted, and will accommodate about twenty-five patients. The sick of all nationalities are admitted. Dr. Tomas F. Spence is the attending physician. The Sonora Railway Hospital is also a well-conducted institution. It is maintained by the employees of the company, and will accommodate about twenty-five patients. Alfred A. Mix, M. D., a well-known physician, is the superintendent. One newspaper, El Centinela de Sonora, furnishes the news of the day. A telephone company, "Bolsa del Telefono de Guaymas," affords the inhabitants of the town rapid communication. A social organization, called the Club del Comercio, has a building containing a library, reading and billiards rooms, etc. There are a number of manufacturing establishments, which are severally engaged in the manufacture of soap, leather, boots and shoes, and ice for domestic use. The public buildings and offices which are not very commodious, consist of a Custom-house, Post-office, City Hall, Cuartel, etc. The country in the immediate vicinity of the town is barren and uninviting, but further in the interior are excellent agricultural and grazing lands. The climate of this section is healthful, but extremely disagreeable during the summer months on account of the excessive heat and winds. Some rain falls during the months, of July, August, and September, and occasionally in December and January. Communication is maintained with Hermosillo, 90 miles distant, by the Sonora Railway Company, who run daily trains, fare $4.25. It is contemplated that this road will be extended to the Arizona border, via Magdalena and Nogales during the present year. The steamer Mexico belonging to the California and Mexican Steamship Co., leaves monthly for San Francisco, touching at La Paz, Mazatlan, Cape St. Lucas, and Magdalena Bay. The steamer Estado de Sonora belonging to a Mexican company, sails about every twenty days for Mulege, La Paz, Mazatlan, San Blas, and Manzanillo. The Southern Pacific R. R. Co., are now engaged in the construction of a road from Yuma to Port Isabel at the head of the gulf, which when completed will afford speedy communication with San Francisco. When connected with the Eastern States and San Francisco by rail, Guaymas will no doubt rapidly increase in population and trade.

Hermosillo,

The capital of the State of Sonora, occupies a beautiful site on the Sonora River, 90 miles north of Guaymas. It has a population of about 11,000, and contains several large and flourishing mercantile and manufacturing establishments. The town is well laid out, and presents a very attractive appearance. The houses are built of adobe and brick, one story in height, many of them being comfortable and substantial structures. This section is noted for its rich agricultural lands, which produce wheat, sugar-cane, cotton, corn, barley, vegetables of almost every kind, oranges, lemons, citrons, dates, limes, figs, guavas, etc. Peaches, pears, berries, and almost all fruits known in the temperate climes also thrive well, and might be produced in abundance. In the vicinity are several extensive and magnificent orange groves, which annually yield a large quantity of fruit. The climate is healthful, but from the latter part of April to October, the weather is at times excessively hot, the thermometer ranging as high as 110°. The winter months are mild and pleasant, frosts being uncommon. The rainy season is during July, August, and September, when considerable rain falls. Showers also occur during December, January, and February, but not to any extent. In the town and vicinity are seven flour mills, the largest of which manufactures from 4,000 to 6,000 cargass, or from 1,200,000 to 1,800,000 pounds of flour annually. Two are steam mills with two run of stone, and five are propelled by water with one run of stone. There are also several mills for the manufacture of panocha and pinole. The place contains a mint which is leased by the government for a period of years to a foreign company. In addition to the superintendent, there is employed one assayer, one refiner, one coiner, two clerks, and eight workmen. During the year 1881, there was coined ten-dollar pieces to the value of $4,210; silver dollars, $581,000; half-dollars, $6,500; quarter-dollars, $3,890; dimes, $2,830. There are two churches, where services are regularly held, one of which is a brick edifice recently erected. Five public schools are maintained, two for boys and three for girls, having an aggregate attendance of between four and five hundred pupils. There are also several private schools for boys as well as girls, which have an attendance of from twenty-five to fifty pupils each. In addition to these institutions of learning, it is contemplated to soon commence the erection of a college edifice, several thousand dollars having been subscribed by the citizens of Hermosillo and Guaymas for that purpose. The Hospital Civil, maintained by the municipal authorities, will accommodate about twenty patients. It is under the charge of Dr. Antonio Rodriguez y Gomez. Two nurses are employed, one for males and one for females. The principal plaza is prettily laid out, with broad walks paved with stone, and lined with orange trees. On Thursday and Saturday evenings it is illuminated by lamps, and a band plays for a few hours. It then presents a lively appearance, being resorted to by many of both sexes, who promenade the walks, listening to the music. Among other projected enterprises is the construction of a street railroad, to extend through one of the principal streets to the Sonora Railway depot. In the eastern portion of the District of Hermosillo are many ledges of gold and silver ore, some of which are being energetically worked, and producing bullion. Several mills with from ten to forty stamps have been erected, and afford the necessary facilities for crushing the rock. In this section veins of copper as well as coal of an excellent quality have also been found, but have not as yet been developed to any extent. Communication is maintained with Guaymas by the trians of the Sonora Railway Co., with Magdalena and Tucson by rail and stage, and with Altar and Ures by stage. The Sonora Railway Co. are rapidly extending their track towards the Arizona line, via Magdalena and Nogales, and it is expected that during the present year they will make connection at the latter point with the Atchison, Topeka, & Santa Fe R. R., who are also rapidly extending their track in a southerly direction. The trains of the Sonora Railway Co. are now running from Hermosillo to a point not far distant from Magdalena. This company have also been granted a concession to construct branch roads from their main track to Ures and Alamos. The completion of these roads, which will give an outlet for the varied productions of this exceedingly rich and fertile section, assures the future prosperity of this beautiful city.

La Paz,

The capital of Lower California, occupies a picturesque site on a bay of the same name, 240 miles by sea north-west of Mazatlan, and 125 miles by land north of Cape St. Lucas. The town is mostly built on ground gradually rising from the shore toward a range of hills a few miles distant, from which may be obtained a magnificent view of the Gulf of California and adjacent islands. It has, according to the census of 1881, a population of 5,000; and, although presenting a very quiet appearance for a town of its size, contains several well-known mercantile establishments, that carry on an extensive business. The imports of merchandise during the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1881, amounted in value to $151,618.95. The exports during the same period amounted to $709,639.64, including pearls, mother of pearl shells, silver bullion, silver ore, hides, salt, oranges, orchilla, damiana, panocha, deer skins, and tortoise shells. The town contains a church, a substantial stone and brick edifice, and several schools. Of the latter, are two for girls and one for boys, sustained by the municipality; and three national schools, two for boys and one for girls, sustained by government appropriations. In addition to these institutions is a college for boys, established by P. Arce, the principal, which has about 115 pupils. Two newspapers, The Voz de California and Boletin Oficial, are regularly issued. A masonic society, the Fieles Obreros de la Baja California No. 30, under the jurisdiction of the Grand Supreme Council of Mexico, has about 140 members. Pearl fishing is the principal industry carried on, and is the main source of support of about one-third of the inhabitants. During the fishing season, which commences on the 15th of May, and ends on the 15th of November, the departure and arrival of the fishing vessels give the harbor an animated appearance. The banks or fisheries, which extend from Cape St. Lucas to Mulege, were divided in 1872 into four sections, and a law passed by the government allowing only one section to be worked every two years. The vessels employed in the business are mostly plungers of two or three tons, manned with a crew of six men, including the diver, who is equipped with a water-proof dress, helmet, leads for the breast and shoulders, and copper or lead shoes, weighing altogether more than one hundred and fifty pounds. The time employed in diving is from six o'clock in the morning until noon, the balance of the day being devoted to opening the oysters and looking for the pearls contained in the shells. During the season of 1881 pearls were obtained in greater abundance than any previous year, some of them being very large and of great value. One, a black pearl of twenty-eight karats, obtained by Juan Hidalgo, was sold in Paris for $10,000. It is calculated that the value of those exported to New York and Paris during the year was upwards of $100,000. The price of the mother of pearl shells is from $10 to $12 per one hundred pounds. In the surrounding country are large tracts of land, which if irrigated would be extremely fertile, and a source of wealth to the owners. The proprietors of these lands offer to give one-half of their tracts to any person or company who by means of artesian wells, or otherwise, will obtain sufficient water for irrigating purposes. The land is well adapted for raising cotton, sugar-cane, mescal plants, wheat, corn, barley, and all kinds of fruits and vegetables. Eighteen leagues in the interior is a plantation owned by N. Mendoza, which contains 300,000 cotton plants, 100,000 mescal plants, and 200 orange trees. About 60 miles north is a ranch owned by José E. von Borstel, containing 20,000 grape-vines, 2,000 date trees, and a large number of fig trees. The Triunfo Mine, about 35 miles in the interior, has been producing bullion since 1864. The company have a good mill and employ from four hundred to five hundred men. On San José Island, about 50 miles north, is another silver mine yielding good ore. The climate of this section is unsurpassed. During the summer months the thermometer ranges from 70 to 90 degrees, but the nights are invariably cool and pleasant. Some rain falls during the summer, and occasionally in December and January. Frosts are unknown. Communication is maintained with San Francisco, Guaymas, Mazatlan, and Cape St. Lucas by the California and Mexican S. S. Co. and with the principal Mexican ports from Guaymas to Manzanillo by the steamer Estado de Sonora.

Magdalena.

State of Sonora, situated on the Magdalena River 123 miles north of Hermosillo, contains about 2,000 inhabitants. It is on the line of the Sonora Railway, which will probably be completed to this point about August, 1882. Surrounding it are extensive tracts of good agricultural and grazing lands, which when improved will be of great value. Grain, vegetables, and fruits of different kinds thrive well, and can be produced in great abundance; but at present but little land is cultivated, and that in the most primitive manner. The town contains two public schools, one for boys and one for girls; the former having an average attendance of forty pupils, and the latter fifty. There is also a private school, with ten pupils. The church of Magdalena, a brick and adobe edifice, erected about fifty years since, is noted as containing an image of Saint Francisco, which is held in great veneration by devout Roman Catholics; and at the annual fiesta, which commences on the 4th day of October, many persons repair thither from all parts of the surrounding country, to worship at its shrine. The town is at present growing quite rapidly, and when connected by rail with other points will no doubt become a place of considerable importance. At present communication is maintained with Tuscon by stage, and with Hermosillo by a line of stages, connecting with the trains of the Sonora Railway Co.

Magdalena Bay,

Lower California, a harbor on the Pacific side of the peninsula, about 250 miles in a north-westerly direction from Cape St. Lucas. The principal articles of export are orchilla, oil, and

Manzanillo,

The principal seaport in the State of Colima, is situated about 220 miles by water south of San Blas. It is of some importance as a shipping point, being the only accessible outlet for the varied productions of a large area of country rich in resources of different kinds. A railroad is now being constructed from this point to Colima, the capital of the State, and will no doubt be extended to Guadalajara, an important interior town of about 90,000 inhabitants. The principal exports are coffee, sugar, cotton, tobacco, cocoa, and hides. The coffee raised in this section is said to equal in quality any in the world; but its cultivation is seriously retarded for the want of proper means of transportation. This locality is noted as being one of the most unhealthy on the coast, malarial diseases prevailing at times to an alarming extent.

Mazatlan.

State of Sinaloa, the principal sea-port town on the west coast of Mexico, is situated near the entrance to the Gulf of California, in latitude  $23^{\circ} 15' 11''$  north, and longitude  $106^{\circ} 25' 0''$  west of Greenwich. It is a town of considerable commercial importance, but labors under the disadvantage of not having an accessible harbor. Vessels of very light draft can approach within a few hundred yards of the shore, but those of heavy draft are compelled to anchor at a distance of from two to three miles from the town. The population according to the last census was 10,000, it is now estimated at about 13,000. On a high bluff at the entrance to the harbor is a lighthouse with a 4th class stationary light, and on another point near by is an observatory maintained by the government for the purpose of collecting statistics of temperature, rain-fall, etc. The town is built on a level strip of land almost surrounded by water, and presents a business-like and somewhat attractive appearance. It contains quite a number of large mercantile establishments, carrying on an extensive trade; and also several manufacturing establishments, including a cotton factory, flour mill, ice factory, iron works, match factory, broom factory, a tannery, and a number of cigar factories. In addition to these enterprises, are gas works, which furnish the inhabitants with a fair quality of gas, and also a street railroad, with tracks extending from the water front through the principal streets to the outskirts. Like all Mexican towns, it has its plazas and promenades. The principal one, the Plaza de Machado, occupies a square in the business portion of the city. It is tastefully laid out with shrubs and flowers of different kinds. On three evenings of each week, a band plays for a few hours, during which time it is resorted to by many of the inhabitants. In addition to this are two other plazas, the Hidalgo and the Saragossa. Olas Altas is a pleasant and favorite promenade by the beach, overlooking the ocean. Here is annually held the Fiesta of 5 de Mayo de 1862, in commemoration of the defeat of the French army by the Mexican forces, at Puebla. The festivities continue for three or four weeks, and are attended by almost the entire population of the city, and by many from the surrounding country. The place contains but one church, and that in a dilapidated condition. Another of brick, which will be quite commodious, is now in course of erection. Although the foundation was laid about twenty years since, the walls are at present only partially completed. There are in the city seven public schools, four for boys and three for girls, which are sustained by the municipality. One naval school supported by the Federal Government. Six private schools, four for boys and two for girls, two of which are partly sustained by the municipality; and also a school for girls under the control of the Sociedad Lancastriana. The aggregate number of pupils is about nine hundred. The Hospital Civil, maintained by the municipality, is a well-conducted institution, capable of accommodating about one hundred and twenty-five patients. There is also a Hospital Militaire, maintained by the Federal Government for the benefit of sick soldiers. Several societies have been organized for various purposes, as follows: Sociedad de Beneficencia de Señoras, which, as its name implies, is a society of ladies, whose object is to take care of the sick, and relieve the wants of the indigent; Sociedad de Beneficencia Española, organized by the Spanish residents for social and benevolent purposes; Sociedad Las Clases Productoras de Occidente, for the advancement of the arts and sciences, and mechanics; Sociedad Lancasteriana, to promote education by the establishment of schools; and a Masonic Lodge under the jurisdiction of the Grand Supreme Council of Mexico. The market of the city is quite a curiosity to strangers. It is fitted up with stalls and booths for the sale of meat, fish, groceries, vegetables, fruits, liquors dry goods, etc. V. Ferreira y Cia, the proprietors of the iron works, have contracted to erect a new market, to be built of iron, which will be completed during the year. Other contemplated improvements are the construction of a wharf of stone and iron, and the enlargement of the Custom-house, by the erection of an additional story, which will make it quite commodious. The inhabitants are supplied with water from reservoirs where it is collected during the rainy season.

It is brought in earthen vessels, on donkeys, and delivered from door to door. The Mazatlan Water Company, recently organized, is now engaged in sinking artesian wells, in hopes of finding a sufficient quantity of good water to supply the town. Three papers El Pacifico, El Occidental, and El Municipio de Mazatlan, are issued weekly, the latter being an official organ published by the municipality. A telegraph, under the control of the government affords rapid communication with many localities in Mexico, as well as with points in the United States. The climate, generally speaking, is healthful, but towards the close of the rainy season, which commences in July and lasts until about the middle of October, malarial diseases prevail to some extent. Rain also falls at times during December and January. In the adjacent country are excellent agricultural and grazing lands. The principal productions are cotton, sugar-cane, corn, wheat, tobacco, and fruit of different kinds. At present these lands are not cultivated to any great extent, the expense of transportation to market being so great, that farming is not profitable. Several leagues in the interior are many extensive ledges, containing rich gold, silver, and copper ores. Some of these are now being energetically developed, by the aid of improved machinery, and producing bullion. The chief articles of export are hides, brazil wood, ores, bullion, fruit, and orchilla. Communication is maintained with San Francisco, San Blas, Manzanillo, Acapulco and Panama every fifteen days, by the Pacific Mail S. S. Co.; with San Francisco, La Paz and Guaymas monthly, by the California and Mexican S. S. Co.; and with Guaymas, Mulege, La Paz, San Blas, and Manzanillo, about every twenty days, by the Mexican steamer Estado de Sonora. Stages leave daily for Rosario and tri-weekly for Culiacan.

Mulege,

Lower California, is situated near the west shore of the Gulf of California, 92 miles southwest of Guaymas, and 194 miles north of La Paz. The town contains about 800 inhabitants, and a few mercantile establishments. The exports are principally pearls and mother of pearl, olives, figs, raisins, and dates. About twenty leagues north of the town are copper mines, which have been worked since 1868. The ore, which is mostly shipped to England for reduction, will yield about twenty-five per cent. Marble of an inferior quality is found on the main-land, and adjacent islands, and some is at present being quarried and shipped to San Francisco. In a small valley near the town is some good land, which if irrigated would be very productive; but generally speaking, the land in this section is better adapted for grazing than for agricultural purposes. Communication is maintained with Guaymas, Mazatlan, La Paz, and other ports by the steamer Estado de Sonora, which touches here on her trips up and down the coast.

Rosario,

State of Sinaloa, is a mining town of about 3,000 inhabitants, situated on the Rosario River, thirty leagues south-east of Mazatlan. In this section are many ledges of silver ore, some of which were worked by the Spaniards in olden times, and are said to have produced a large amount of bullion. At the present time considerable activity prevails, and several companies are energetically developing their ground with good results. This section is also noted for its excellent grazing lands, upon which are raised a large number of cattle. Agriculture is carried on to some extent, the lands being capable of producing good crops of sugar-cane, cotton, corn, etc.

San Blas,

The principal sea-port of the State of Jalisco, containing about 2,000 inhabitants, is situated near the mouth of the Rio Santiago, 120 miles south of Mazatlan. The town is built on a strip of low, sandy land, and presents an uninviting appearance, being mostly a collection of huts, with a few one-story adobe structures. The principal business houses, some of which carry on quite an extensive trade, are located on the main street, which extends from the landing place to the outskirts of the town. Through this street a railroad track has recently been laid for the transportation of merchandise from the beach to the stores. Vessels, with the exception of those of very light draft, are compelled to anchor in an open roadstead, with no protection against the heavy gales which frequently occur during the rainy season. It is the port of entry for goods destined for Tepic, Santiago, and other towns, as well as for a portion of those destined for Guadalajara, an important town some distance in the interior. It is also the shipping point for exports from the same section, consisting principally of fruits, hides, sugar, coffee, rice, tobacco, cigars, ebony, chili, coquito nuts, and caoutchouc. In addition to the tobacco exported, there is considerable used in the manufacture of cigars and cigarettes at the factories in San Blas and Tepic. About 80 miles due west of the port is a group of islands, called the Tres Marias, from which are exported, via San Blas, a large quantity of excellent cedar lumber and logs. From this point is obtained the most of the lumber used in San Francisco in the manufacture of cigar boxes. On these islands there is also a heavy growth of other kinds of timber, including mahogany, oak, pine, elm, walnut, willow, ironwood, etc. The manufacture of salt is also extensively carried on at the Tres Marias, a large quantity being annually shipped to foreign and domestic ports. On a high bluff overlooking the ocean, about one mile distant, is the site of old San Blas, a view of which will well repay a stranger for the trouble of a visit. Here may be seen the crumbling walls of the old church, a fort, and other buildings, carrying the mind back to the days when San Blas was a favorite rendezvous for the buccaneers who infested the Spanish main. Four bells, which were brought from Spain for the old church, are now suspended on poles in front of the new church, a small, adobe edifice situated near the plaza. They have a very antiquated appearance and are badly cracked, but are still used to summon the congregation to worship. There are two schools, one for boys and one for girls, sustained by the municipality, and also two private schools. The aggregate number of pupils is about two hundred. Back of the town is a large area of exceedingly fertile land, which by proper cultivation can be made to produce abundant crops of sugarcane, rice, tobacco, cotton, corn, beans, and different kinds of vegetables and fruits. In the jungles near by and forests of the foot-hills are to be found different kinds of game; and the adjacent waters yield an abundant supply of excellent oysters and various kinds of fish. The rainy season commences about the middle of June, and continues until November. During this period, heavy rain-storms, accompanied by thunder and lightning, are frequent, and the weather is intensely hot. The balance of the year, the weather is comparatively cool and pleasant. The climate, generally speaking, is healthful; but during the summer months malarial diseases prevail to some extent. San Blas has recently been selected as the Pacific terminus of the Mexican Central Railway, which has already had the effect to materially enhance the value of real estate, and give an appearance of unusual business activity to this heretofore sleepy old town. Among other contemplated improvements is the construction of a good wharf, and the building of a breakwater from the mainland, which will make the harbor more secure and facilitate the landing and shipping of goods. The agreement entered into between the Mexican government and the company provides for the completion of the first section of the road, from San Blas to Tepic, within fourteen months from the 1st of next November. From Tepic the road will be extended to Guadalajara, and from thence to some point on the main line. Communication is maintained with San Francisco via Mazatlan, and with Panama via Manzanillo and Acapulco, by the Pacific Mail steamers, which touch monthly on their trips up and down the coast. The Mexican steamer Estado de Sonora makes a round trip from Guaymas to Manzanillo, via Mulege, La Paz, Mazatlan, and San Blas, about every twenty days. Two lines of stages maintain tri-weekly communication with Tepic.

San Jose del Cabo,

Lower California, is situated on the west shore of the Gulf of California, 24 miles north-east of Cape St. Lucas. A mission was founded here in the year 1730. In this section are excellent agricultural lands, which produce large crops of cotton and sugar-cane; oranges, grapes, corn, and different kind of vegetables are also grown quite extensively. In addition to those engaged in agricultural pursuits, quite a number of persons are employed in the manufacture of panocha and wine. Considerable quantities of cotton, panocha, oranges, hides, tallow, cheese, and damiana are exported. In the surrounding country are many stock ranches upon which roam numerous herds of cattle.

San Miguel,

State of Sonora, is prettily situated on the San Miguel River, about 35 miles north-east of Hermosillo. In this vicinity are large tracts of agricultural land, producing wheat, cotton, and sugar-cane in great abundance. Corn and all kinds of fruits and vegetables also thrive well, and are grown to some extent. This section is also noted for its excellent grazing lands, stock raising being carried on quite extensively. Three miles from the town is located the Fabrica de Los Angeles, owned by the Compañia Industria Sonorense. About one hundred and twenty-five operatives, male and female, are employed in the establishment in the manufacture of cotton fabrics. The mill is run by water power, and contains sixty looms. This company is also extensively engaged in the manufacture of flour, panocha, leather, and soap. From 8,000 to 12,000 fanegas of flour (170 pounds to the fanega) are manufactured annually, most of which is shipped to Guaymas and Mazatlan. The cotton, sugar-cane, wheat, and other materials used in the manufacture of these articles are raised by the company who own extensive tracts of land, which are cultivated by the aid of the most improved agricultural machinery. In the aggregate about six hundred persons are employed by the company in the different branches of industry.

Tepic,

State of Jalisco, 50 miles west of the port of San Blas, and 225 miles in a north-western direction from Guadalajara, the capital of the State, occupies a picturesque sight on a level plain at an altitude of about 3,000 feet above the sea. The town contains about 14,000 inhabitants, and is regularly laid out with streets of good width, paved with stone, crossing each other at right angles. The houses are mostly one-story adobe structures, many being quite neat and substantial; which, together with the beauty of its surroundings, gives the place a very attractive appearance. In the business portion of the city is a small but pretty plaza, tastefully laid out with flowers and shrubs, and near the outskirts a public park of quite large dimensions, with pleasant walks lined with flowers of various hue, and shaded by beautiful trees. The latter is a favorite promenade for the inhabitants; and on certain days, when enlivened by the music of an excellent brass band, presents a gay and animated appearance. As a business center the place is of considerable importance, and contains several very large and flourishing mercantile establishments. In the town and vicinity are several extensive factories, including two cotton mills, engaged in the manufacture of fabrics for sacks and coarse clothing, and two sugar mills, which turn out a large quantity of sugar of a good quality. In addition to these are two establishments extensively engaged in the manufacture of excellent cigars, many of which are shipped to foreign and domestic ports. The place contains three churches, one being a large and substantial edifice; also several public and private schools, having an aggregate attendance of about six hundred pupils. Two papers, the Aurora del Trabajo, and a small sheet, the official organ of the Ayuntamiento del Distrito, are issued regularly. A public library, containing a few hundred volumes, furnishes reading matter, and a theater affords dramatic entertainments for the inhabitants. Two telegraph lines maintain rapid communication with all important towns in Mexico, connecting with lines to different points in the United States. There is also a street railroad, with tracks extending through some of the principal thoroughfares, and cars resembling those used in American cities. Water of an excellent quality is brought in earthen jars, from a stream near the town, and sold to the inhabitants at a reasonable price. In the surrounding country are several large and valuable ranches, some of which are under a high state of cultivation. Among the productions are coffee, rice, tobacco, sugar-cane, wheat, barley, etc., and almost every variety of tropical fruits. But little cotton is raised in the immediate vicinity, most of that used in the factories being brought from other portions of the State, or imported from the United States, via San Blas. The climate is healthful and pleasant, the altitude being sufficient to temper the summer heat, which is so oppressive in many of the localities on the coast. The completion of the Mexican Central Railway from this point to the port of San Blas will afford an outlet for the productions of this fertile section, and the cultivation of the soil will then become a very important and profitable industry. The preparations for the construction of the road, and the certainty of soon having communication by rail with important points, has already given the town a more active appearance; and from this on, the pretty city of Tepic will no doubt rapidly increase in population and trade. At present, communication is maintained by stage with San Blas three times a week, and with Guadalajara once a week.

Ures,

Sonora, is situated on the Sonora River, about 50 miles east of Hermosillo, in a large and fertile valley, which can easily be irrigated by water from the river. It was formerly the capital of the State, and at that time was a flourishing town; but since the removal of the State Government to Hermosillo, business has seriously declined. In the vicinity are some large ranches, a few of them under cultivation and producing a large quantity of wheat, which is manufactured into flour and shipped to Guaymas and Mazatlan. Corn, sugar-cane, oranges, bananas, figs, guavas, and other tropical fruits are raised, and might be produced in great abundance. The climate and soil is also favorable for the production of almost all kinds of vegetables, and fruits of more northern climes. In the vicinity there are excellent grazing lands, and some fine stock ranches. Not far distant are many ledges of gold and silver ore, some of which are producing bullion. Copper ore and coal have also been found, but the veins have not as yet been prospected to any extent. The climate of this section is remarkably healthful. In summer the weather is at times extremely hot, in winter mild and pleasant, with occasional frosts. Considerable rain falls during June, July, August, and September, and occasionally during the winter months. Communication is maintained with Hermosillo by a line of stages. The Sonora Railway Co. has been granted a concession to construct a road from Hermosillo, which, when completed, will materially aid in the development of the resources of this rich and fertile section.

Alamos,

State of Sonora, is an important mining town of 8,000 inhabitants, situated about 130 miles south-east of Guaymas. In the vicinity are many rich ledges of silver ore. A large amount of English and American capital has been invested in these mines, some of which are being energetically developed with the aid of the most improved machinery. A large quantity of silver is annually exported from this point via Agia Bampo, its sea-port, about 80 miles distant, with which it is connected by stage.

FOR NICE, CLEAR COFFEE,

— USE THE —

AMERICAN COFFEE POT.

The Superiority of the AMERICAN COFFEE POT over others in use is in the strainer—the cup with a cloth bottom being used in place of a bag or perforated tin. It filters better than either, for the reason that the boiling water must pass through the coffee instead of through the sides of the bag, if a bag is used, and must filter with less sediment and much faster than a tin perforated bottom. It is much easier cleaned or renewed than a bag, and will not corrode or wear out like tin. The bottom being so easily renewed without expense or trouble, a new or clean one can be put on every few days.

For Sale by Dealers in Tinware Generally.
